'GOOD FAITH' OF REDS NOT ENOUGH, UN SAYS

Truman Stirs Up New Debate With 'Eyewash' Jibe

President's Primary Election Evaluation Brings Comments From Both Political Parties

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP)—President Truman's dismissal of state presidential primary elections as "eyewash" has brought a new debate on Capitol Hill and sharp retorts from Republican contenders for his job.

Harold E. Stassen said: "President Truman's statement is an example of the cynical attitude of the Pendergast machine toward the rights of the people."

Gov. Earl Warren of California said: "The election process in this country is never eyewash."

Democrats commented, too, and some, including Senator Smathers (D-Fla) said he agreed with the President.

He and Senator Douglas (D-Ill) have been pushing for congressional action to install party primaries in all the states.

"By saying presidential primaries are eyewash and don't mean a thing, President Truman put his finger on an evil I'd like to do away with," Smathers said.

* * *

"THE PEOPLE should have some say-so in the selection of candidates for President and Vice-President."

Senator Douglas, noting he was not seeking a row with the President, urged "presidential primaries be expanded rather than contracted."

He said nominations at conventions now are controlled by about 1,000 party leaders "who frequently nominate men whom the people do not want and ignore others whom the people do desire."

Other observers have pointed out that delegates to national party conventions are not bound by the dictates of the "little voter" back home, that many a candidate is selected by a handful of party bosses in "smoke-filled hotel rooms."

This has not always been the case—as witness the "blitz" staged by backers of the late Wendell Willkie who gained the Republican nomination, but was defeated by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Another observation concerns the value of direct voter primaries as suggested by Douglas and Smathers. It is pointed out that Americans are slow to vote in a general election, slower to type themselves "Republican" or "Democrat" in primary polls.

The question is: If John Q. Voters declines to exercise his ballot at a primary, is that situation any worse than if the candidate is picked under the present system?

Three other Democratic senators agree with Mr. Truman that he can have his party's presidential nomination—if he wants it—without bothering about state primaries.

* * *

STILL KEEPING his plans to himself, the President told his news conference Thursday if he wants the nomination he does not have to go into any primary.

"I feel sure about that," Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) told a reporter. "In fact he'll have to fight now to keep from being renominated."

Johnson clung to his belief that Mr. Truman will not be a candidate again for the presidency.

Senator Anderson (D-NM), who served in the Truman cabinet as secretary of agriculture and thinks the President will run again, agreed Mr. Truman can ignore all primaries and still be renominated.

"I've been saying that right along," he said.

Senator Kerr (D-Okla), who has hinted he might run if Mr. Truman does not, put it this way:

"It's a generally recognized fact that the President will be renominated if he lets it be known he is available."

PERHAPS THIS PICTURE made at the United Nations POW camp in Pusan, Korea, gives a clue to Communist objections to giving prisoners of war held by allies a choice of remaining where they are or of returning to their homes in Red-held territory. The POW amputees are being taught to walk with artificial limbs.

NATIONALISTS CHALK VICTORY

UN Labels Red Russia As 'Treaty-Breaker'

PARIS, Feb. 1—(AP)—The UN General Assembly has approved an American-backed resolution labeling Russia a treaty-breaker for failing to live up to its 1945 friendship pact with Nationalist China.

With almost half the members not voting, the ballot was 25 to nine, with 24 abstentions and two members not present.

The assembly's action in approving the relatively mild rebuke represented a triumph for Nationalist China's delegate Dr. T. F. Tsiang, who has been trying for three years to get some sort of UN condemnation of Russia's part in the downfall of Chiang Kai-shek.

The Nationalists charged Russia violated the treaty to aid the Chinese Communists and that this aid was responsible for Chiang's ejection from the mainland.

The watered down resolution merely noted Russia "failed to carry out" its 1945 treaty.

* * *

EVEN IN THIS weakened form, however, many countries including some of America's staunchest allies, refused to have anything to do with it. They included Britain, Mexico, Netherlands, the Scandinavian countries plus many of the Asian and Arab nations. All these abstained from voting.

Burma, India, Indonesia and Israel voted with the Soviet bloc against the Chinese complaint.

The Russian treaty with Nationalist China was signed in August, 1945, as an outgrowth of the Yalta agreement by President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill. Introducing his complaint last Saturday, Tsiang said he found Roosevelt's position at Yalta difficult to justify.

The Chinese Communists repudiated the 1945 treaty when they came to power and signed a new agreement with Russia in 1950.

Earlier Friday Burma's chief delegate to the United Nations said his country will call on the UN—and only the UN—if it needs help to drive Chinese Nationalist stragglers out of North Burma.

His apparent repudiation of an earlier indication that Burma might seek such help from the Chinese Communists came as Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik repeated his charges that U. S. officers are leading "military action by the Nationalists" in North Burma.

U. S. Delegate John Sherman Cooper again repeated denials of Malik's charges.

WEATHER FORECASTER

Mr. Groundhog Will Be In His Heyday Saturday

According to legend, the fuzzy-faced fellow above will be in his heyday Saturday.

For Saturday is "groundhog day," when Mr. Groundhog will poke his inquisitive nose out of his burrow to tell weather.

Whether, that is, we will have six more weeks of ice and snow or whether Spring weather is just around the corner.

A great many persons rely upon the groundhog for this unique service, performed only upon the second day of February each year.

Legend has it that the animal definitely will interrupt his Winter slumbers on that day to venture out of his burrow.

* * *

IF, ON THAT DAY, he should happen to see his shadow because of sunshine the little fellow will retire to his den to sleep through six more weeks of Wintery weather.

On the other hand, if Mr. Groundhog finds the day overcast and no shadow available we can expect balmy breezes and Spring weather nearby.

Many persons have faith in the groundhog's antics—if he fails to see his shadow, that is, and warmer weather is expected to be forthcoming.

If he is confronted by sunshine on his day, the legend is no good, strictly for kids and who could believe such a thing, anyway? Everyone knows Spring is about here and will come a little earlier this year anyhow.

Nonetheless, the groundhog's antics on his special day will be carefully watched here and local "prophets" will use the outcome of the day in relaying their own forecastings for an early Spring.

Communists Turn Down Allied Ideas

Neutral Inspection Entry Port Plans Get Cold Shoulder

MUNSAN, Feb. 1—(AP)—Red negotiators proposed Friday the fate of 600,000 displaced Korean civilians be left to the "good faith" of the Allies and Communists.

The Reds 1—turned down a UN plan to have neutrals find out where the displaced Koreans want to live, 2—Cut the Allied proposal for inspections at 12 ports of entry to three, and 3—Did not reply to the Allied selection of Switzerland, Sweden and Norway as neutral observers of a Korean truce.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby said "we told them good faith was not enough" guarantee that displaced civilians would be allowed to live where they choose. He said "everything was very amicable except they didn't agree."

The UN proposed neutral teams interview displaced persons after the Reds again rejected a proposal to give the job to the international committee of the Red Cross. The Communists said they wanted no part of the Red Cross because it is not neutral.

There was no mention of voluntary prisoner repatriation, key stumbling block in the prisoner exchange negotiations.

Staff officers working on truce supervision machinery completed a preliminary study of the Allied working draft.

* * *

THE OFFICIAL UN Command communique said the officers "will now attempt to resolve the differences in viewpoints, most of them minor, which have been uncovered."

Among the differences in viewpoint is a disagreement over how many ports of entry should be inspected by neutral teams. The UN proposed 12 on either side—24 all told. The Reds suggested that three on each side would be sufficient. They listed Sinuiju, Hamhung and Chongjin in North Korea and Pusan, Inchon and Suwon behind Allied lines.

The Red proposal brought prompt and unfavorable reaction from Allied negotiators.

"We pointed out the impracticality of trying to limit our operations to three points and suggested that they reconsider their offer," said Col. Don O. Darrow, a UN staff officer.

An Allied spokesman said other disputes involve the number of troops each side may rotate, several UN held coastal islands which the Reds want and the number of neutral inspection teams behind the lines.

The UN wants 15 teams operating behind the lines on each side. The Reds have not said how many they want.

The staff officers aren't even discussing the principal obstacle to agreement on how to supervise an armistice. This is the question of whether the Reds have the right to build and repair military airfields in North Korea during an armistice.

LONG-TERM PACT DEMANDED

Truck Drivers Strike, But Accord Developing

COLUMBUS, Feb. 1—(AP)—Nearly 6,000 Ohio truck drivers were out on strike Friday. They want more pay.

Officials of the AFL Teamsters Union already claimed steady defections in the solid front of opposition to wage demands shown Thursday by the operators.

Dale Mann of Columbus, business agent for Teamsters Local 413, said several companies signed up "in the last hour." Mann said the latest to sign independent contracts were:

Hayes Freight Lines of Mattoon, Ill., CCC of Cleveland, C. and D. of Cincinnati and Haeckel of Hamilton.

Ohio truck owners voted Thursday night to reject wage proposals by the union. J. Ralph Riley, member of the negotiating committee for Ohio owners, Thursday night said "we have given our final decision to top officials in the Central States Drivers Council."

In Cleveland, Teamsters Local 407 said U. S. Truck Lines of Norwalk, Keeshin Motor Express, TransAmerican and Interstate Transport have signed.

* * *

ABOUT 22 steel-hauling firms signed contracts, the Cleveland union said, leaving a few unsigned in that field.

A spot check of some Columbus trucking firms indicated the swing to signing likely was growing. Of the first three called, two said they would sign a contract Friday, a third was undecided.

The drivers want an hourly wage increase of 19 cents and hikes of 7½ cents in 1953 and 1954. The drivers are paid now on an average of $1.60 an hour with varying mileage rate.

Under the new contract, already signed by many truck groups, the truckers also would get a hike in mileage pay rate of three-fourths of a cent a mile, with further boosts of one-fourth cent in 1953 and 1954.

The strikes virtually paralyzed operation of freight companies in 15 states. The effects were felt immediately throughout much of the eastern half of the country.

The strikers hit the south from the Carolinas to Texas and in Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Ohio. The long-haul truckers were ordered out Thursday midnight by the AFL Teamsters Union against approximately 500 companies.

The Federal Mediation Service in Washington was keeping an eye on the strike situation. But there was no indication what the government's next step might be.

Leading GOP Lawyer Heads Cleanup Job

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Newbold Morris, prominent Republican lawyer, Friday accepted the job of supervising the federal government cleanup program.

Morris, former president of New York City Council, will work under the supervision of Attorney General McGrath, himself under investigation by a House judiciary subcommittee.

McGrath, announcing the appointment, said it had the approval of President Truman.

The President early this month assigned McGrath the job of cleaning up any remaining corruption in the government, after giving up the idea of appointing an investigatory body outside any regular federal agency.

Morris will have the title of special assistant to the attorney general.

The appointment will not require Senate confirmation.

* * *

MCGRATH SAID he has promised Morris "complete, enthusiastic and unlimited cooperation."

Morris has achieved wide popularity as a "reform" lawyer. He was a charter member of the group which swept Fiorello H. LaGuardia into power in New York in 1933, and was rewarded by being chosen assistant corporation counsel for New York.

McGrath told newsmen:

"Mr. Morris owes no allegiance whatsoever by reason of prior association or otherwise to myself or to the present administration. I have asked him to undertake this task solely as a service to his country."

UN, Reds Actually Can Reach Accord

PANMUNJOM, Feb. 1—(AP)—Allied and Communist truce negotiators reached quick agreement on one point Friday.

Heavy smoke rose from a stove in a conference tent. An Allied aide said "I suggest we move to another tent." The Communists agreed.

Southern Ohio Gambling Slips

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1 — (AP) — Gambling in Southern Ohio fell off about $383,000 in a month, the Internal Revenue Department reports.

Howard T. Jordan, chief of the wage and excise division, said business reported for December amounted to $2,143, as compared to $385,570 for November. He based the figures on reports submitted by gamblers who are required to pay a monthly tax on 10 per cent of the total amount of bets taken.

The 13-county area includes Cincinnati, Hamilton, Wilmington, Dayton, Springfield, Washington C. H., Portsmouth and Ironton.

Draft Quotas Coming Up Due To Be Slashed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Draft quotas for the spring months may be far lower than expected due to a drop in Korea casualties and an increase in enlistments.

This is the latest Selective Service prediction following a mixup Thursday in which Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey first forecast a sharp increase for the April-May-June period but later said a mistake had been made.

Instead of Hershey's original estimate of 90,000 a month, the figure probably will be between 40,000 and 50,000 men called monthly during the period, officials said.

This compares with the January call of 60,000, February 52,500, March 28,600, and the monthly average of 46,000 since the draft was reactivated in September 1950. Highest figure was 80,000 for March, 1951.

Officials said Hershey had used old information on which to base his estimates. They said conditions had changed since, due to the Korean lull and because enlistments had climbed.

Slaughterers Due To Pay Inspectors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Slaughterers across the nation have agreed to foot the bill so 280 government meat inspectors won't be fired because of a lack of federal funds.

The Agriculture Department notified the inspectors two weeks ago they would be laid off. But Thursday it said the slaughterers affected would finance the operation rather than face a slowdown in their meat output.

Minnesota Bets Total 50 Cents

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—One 50-cent bet in Minnesota was duly reported by the federal government Friday. The Internal Revenue Bureau, in a report of the new federal gambling tax, listed the collection for November.

Two gamblers in Minnesota had taken out the new federal gambling tax stamp in November, at a cost of $33.34 each.

African Boy Steals Show From Lillibet

NAIROBI, Kenya, Feb. 1—(AP)—A three-year-old African boy bashfully turned his back on Princess Elizabeth Friday and grabbed the spotlight at this British East African colony's welcome to its future ruler.

The child—named Prince because he was born the same day as Elizabeth's son, Prince Charles—was delegated to hand her a bouquet when she visited the new African maternity hospital soon after her airport arrival.

Wide-eyed and solemn in white shirt and short blue trousers, Prince turned his back on the princess and shyly backhanded the flowers. Elizabeth gently pulled him around and took the bouquet, to the delight of the large crowd of Africans on hand.

With her husband Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, the princess landed here after the 4,013-mile flight from London. It was the first stop on their five-month tour to the eastern half of the British commonwealth.

Principal Dies

ATHENS, Feb. 1—(AP)—Oliver L. Wood, 56, principal of Athens high school since 1929, was found dead in his bed at home Friday. He was a native of Washington C. H.

Flood Crest Drawing Near To Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1 — (AP)—The crest of the weakened Ohio River flood rolled toward Cincinnati Friday and areas downstream in Kentucky and Indiana began getting ready for their jolt of high water.

The predicted crest of 57.5 feet was due here Friday. That would be five and a half feet over flood stage. Low-lying streets already were under water, but there were no indications of any serious damage.

Upstream, the river started falling at Portsmouth late Thursday and it crested later at Manchester, Aberdeen and Ripley.

Manchester was the hardest hit in the Adams - Brown - Clermont County area and residents of approximately 40 homes were being housed in the National Guard Armory.

In this area, approximately 100 persons were being housed by the Red Cross Disaster Committee. Many others living on low lying streets either had moved to upper floors or had joined relatives on higher ground.

Youth Marooned On Flooded Isle

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1—(AP)—Police rescued a 16-year-old boy Thursday from a flood-made island where he had been marooned since Tuesday.

The youth, Clifford Griffith, attracted the attention of flood watchers by flashing a flashlight. He had been marooned at a camp which is on what normally is a knoll on the Ohio River bank. The youth told officers he killed a rabbit and ate it for supper Thursday.

Jet Stays Aloft Over 12 Hours

EDWARDS, Calif., Feb. 1—(AP)—An Air Force jet fighter, by refueling four times from a flying tanker, has managed to stay aloft 12 hours, five minutes.

Edwards Air Force Base officers believe the flight, made over the Mojave Desert by Lt. Walter G. Hodges of Lake Wales, Fla., is the longest sustained time in the air for jets.

Coroner Says Youth 'Clear' In Death Case

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 1 — (AP)—William E. Echard, 20, termed a "swell kid" by the coroner, was to be questioned again Friday about the hatchet death of his grandfather, George W. Brantner, 74.

Young Echard, drugged with "truth serium," underwent three hours of questioning Thursday. His replies cleared him of any implication in Brantner's death, said Coroner David Belinky.

"He has been cooperating with us fully and is willing to do anything to help us find out how his grandfather died," said Belinky.

Echard told police he found his grandfather in the basement of the Brantner home when he went to call him for supper Monday night. Brantner's beaten body was lying on a coal pile, his head hacked 100 times with a hatchet.

Both young Echard, who is home on a between-semesters vacation from DePauw University, and his father, William, 51, were given lie detector tests Wednesday. The elder Echard was released later that day.

Police have been unable to question Brantner's daughter, Mrs. William Echard. She suffered a heart attack after the body was discovered and is in serious condition.

Heroic Plea Is Made For Pilot's Widow

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 — (AP)—The widow of Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war who perished in the Elizabeth, N. J., plane crash of Jan. 22, appealed Thursday night for public sympathy with the pilot's widow.

Speaking over radio station WNBC, Mrs. Patterson urged listeners to use their "inexhaustible flood of sympathy and strength to give moral support to the widow of Capt. Thomas John Reid," pilot of the American Airlines plane.

"Besides Mrs. Reid's other troubles," Mrs. Patterson said, "she had to bear wickedly foolish rumors blaming her husband for the accident and now she is in the hospital.

"It seems impossible any one could be so ungenerous and inhuman. The favorite toast to the people who fly is 'happy landing' and we must face the fact that the landing is always in God's hands."

Mrs. Reid is expecting her third child next summer.

Teenagers Cooling Off Hotrods By Appearing In School Court

CHICAGO, Feb. 1—(AP)—The kids are cooling off their own hot rods in nearby Maine Township high school.

They're doing it through a high school traffic court, presided over by a chief judge and eight associate judges whose average age is slightly over 16.

The court has its own prosecuting attorney, clerk and bailiff, its own traffic code and traffic tickets, and a schedule of fines ranging from a quarter to $1.50.

It was established this year as a means of solving problems of hotrodding, show-off driving and other bad practices frequently attributed to teenagers.

The court has full support of the school administration and faculty, but the youngsters themselves handle all court procedures.

The traffic violation tickets are distributed to 80 "special monitors" who keep on the lookout for infractions of the code.

The court's jurisdiction is limited to the 70 acres of school grounds and the immediate surrounding area. Pupils who are not "special monitors" may file complaints, appear as witnesses.

Violators who plead guilty may pay their fines without attending court, but those who wish to contest the charge may argue their own cases or bring student "defense attorneys" to represent them. Violations range from failure to have a school sticker to hotrodding.

Latest Congressional Probe: Pepped-Up, Tattooed Chickens

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP)—"Tattooed chicken" is the latest study picked for a congressional investigating committee.

They are hens or roosters marked with a special dye to proclaim them as pepped-up fowl.

And a pepped-up fowl would be one "shot" with estrogen pellets —sex hormones—to fatten it.

A House select committee investigating the use of chemicals in foods has been trying to determine whether estrogen — injected fowl are harmful to man.

There has been testimony that heads and necks of such chicken fed to mink have made their offspring as scarce as a new mink coat of late in Washington.

Dr. D. C. Hines, in charge of the estrogen clinical program of Eli Lilly and Co., Indianapolis, was a witness Thursday.

He contended there is no evidence to show it hurts humans to eat such chicken.

But since the usual place for "shooting" said chicken is at the base of the skull, well, a soup of chicken heads and necks, especially if one got an incompletely absorbed pellet, mike make one fil, but wouldn't change his sex.

CIO Asks Guaranteed Minimum Annual Wage

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 — (AP)—A guaranteed minimum annual wage in American industry was demanded Friday by Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, to offset unemployment and to "strike dismay" in the Kremlin.

Murray, also CIO president, likened guaranteed annual wages to a domestic "Point Four program" for "backward, or under-developed, areas of American economic stability."

Murray outlined his proposal before a six-man panel of the Wage Stabilization Board, which resumed a hearing on the steelworkers' wage and other demands after a three-week recess. A possible nationwide steel strike hinges on the outcome of the hearings.

Another hearing witness for the CIO, Economist Murray W. Latimer, said a guaranteed annual wage in the steel industry for employes with three or more years' service could be supported by company contributions of 6½ to 7 cents an hour.

In calling for the guaranteed wage plan, which in effect would give workers three-quarters of their normal pay in slack periods for as long as a year, Murray said it was not socialistic.

"Our guaranteed annual wage proposal is drafted with the best interests of our American free enterprise system in mind," he said. "It will strengthen American free enterprise, now and over the long run.

"And its adoption would strike dismay in the hearts of the men in the Kremlin who are banking on American economic distress as their most valuable fifth column in the campaign to weaken free institutions and hasten the spread of Communist distatorship."

The Agriculture Department notified the inspectors two weeks ago they would be laid off. But Thursday it said the slaughterers affected would finance the operation rather than face a slowdown in their meat output.

Minnesota Bets Total 50 Cents

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—One 50-cent bet in Minnesota was duly reported by the federal government Friday. The Internal Revenue Bureau, in a report of the new federal gambling tax, listed the collection for November.

Two gamblers in Minnesota had taken out the new federal gambling tax stamp in November, at a cost of $33.34 each.

African Boy Steals Show From Lillibet

NAIROBI, Kenya, Feb. 1—(AP)—A three-year-old African boy bashfully turned his back on Princess Elizabeth Friday and grabbed the spotlight at this British East African colony's welcome to its future ruler.

The child—named Prince because he was born the same day as Elizabeth's son, Prince Charles—was delegated to hand her a bouquet when she visited the new African maternity hospital soon after her airport arrival.

Wide-eyed and solemn in white shirt and short blue trousers, Prince turned his back on the princess and shyly backhanded the flowers. Elizabeth gently pulled him around and took the bouquet, to the delight of the large crowd of Africans on hand.

With her husband Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, the princess landed here after the 4,013-mile flight from London. It was the first stop on their five-month tour to the eastern half of the British commonwealth.

ATHENS, Feb. 1—(AP)—Oliver L. Wood, 56, principal of Athens high school since 1929, was found dead in his bed at home Friday. He was a native of Washington C. H.

WEATHER FORECASTER

Mr. Groundhog Will Be In His Heyday Saturday

I Wonder???

According to legend, the fuzzy-faced fellow above will be in his heyday Saturday.

For Saturday is "groundhog day," when Mr. Groundhog will poke his inquisitive nose out of his burrow to tell weather.

Whether, that is, we will have six more weeks of ice and snow or whether Spring weather is just around the corner.

A great many persons rely upon the groundhog for this unique service, performed only upon the second day of February each year.

Legend has it that the animal definitely will interrupt his Winter slumbers on that day to venture out of his burrow.

* * *

IF, ON THAT DAY, he should happen to see his shadow because of sunshine the little fellow will retire to his den to sleep through six more weeks of Wintery weather.

On the other hand, if Mr. Groundhog finds the day overcast and no shadow available we can expect balmy breezes and Spring weather nearby.

Many persons have faith in the groundhog's antics—if he fails to see his shadow, that is, and warmer weather is expected to be forthcoming.

If he is confronted by sunshine on his day, the legend is no good, strictly for kids and who could believe such a thing, anyway? Everyone knows Spring is about here and will come a little earlier this year anyhow.

Nonetheless, the groundhog's antics on his special day will be carefully watched here and local "prophets" will use the outcome of the day in relaying their own forecastings for an early Spring.

Flood Crest Drawing Near To Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1 — (AP)—The crest of the weakened Ohio River flood rolled toward Cincinnati Friday and areas downstream in Kentucky and Indiana began getting ready for their jolt of high water.

The predicted crest of 57.5 feet was due here Friday. That would be five and a half feet over flood stage. Low-lying streets already were under water, but there were no indications of any serious damage.

Upstream, the river started falling at Portsmouth late Thursday and it crested later at Manchester, Aberdeen and Ripley.

Manchester was the hardest hit in the Adams - Brown - Clermont County area and residents of approximately 40 homes were being housed in the National Guard Armory.

In this area, approximately 100 persons were being housed by the Red Cross Disaster Committee. Many others living on low lying streets either had moved to upper floors or had joined relatives on higher ground.

Youth Marooned On Flooded Isle

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1—(AP)—Police rescued a 16-year-old boy Thursday from a flood-made island where he had been marooned since Tuesday.

The youth, Clifford Griffith, attracted the attention of flood watchers by flashing a flashlight. He had been marooned at a camp which is on what normally is a knoll on the Ohio River bank. The youth told officers he killed a rabbit and ate it for supper Thursday.

Jet Stays Aloft Over 12 Hours

EDWARDS, Calif., Feb. 1—(AP)— An Air Force jet fighter, by refueling four times from a flying tanker, has managed to stay aloft 12 hours, five minutes.

Edwards Air Force Base officers believe the flight, made over the Mojave Desert by Lt. Walter G. Hodges of Lake Wales, Fla., is the longest sustained time in the air for jets.

LONG-TERM PACT DEMANDED

Truck Drivers Strike, But Accord Developing

COLUMBUS, Feb. 1—(AP)—Nearly 6,000 Ohio truck drivers were out on strike Friday. They want more pay.

Officials of the AFL Teamsters Union already claimed steady defections in the solid front of opposition to wage demands shown Thursday by the operators.

Dale Mann of Columbus, business agent for Teamsters Local 413, said several companies signed up "in the last hour." Mann said the latest to sign independent contracts were:

Hayes Freight Lines of Mattoon, Ill., CCC of Cleveland, C. and D. of Cincinnati and Haeckel of Hamilton.

Ohio truck owners voted Thursday night to reject wage proposals by the union, J. Ralph Riley, member of the negotiating committee for Ohio owners, Thursday night said "we have given our final decision to top officials in the Central States Drivers Council."

In Cleveland, Teamsters Local 407 said U. S. Truck Lines of Norwalk, Keeshin Motor Express, TransAmerican and Interstate Transport have signed.

* * *

ABOUT 22 steel-hauling firms signed contracts, the Cleveland union said, leaving a few unsigned in that field.

A spot check of some Columbus trucking firms indicated the swing to signing likely was growing. Of the first three called, two said they would sign a contract Friday, a third was undecided.

The drivers want an hourly wage increase of 19 cents and hikes of 7½ cents in 1953 and 1954. The drivers are paid now on an average of $1.60 an hour with varying mileage rate.

Under the new contract, already signed by many truck groups, the truckers also would get a hike in mileage pay rate of three-fourths of a cent a mile, with further boosts of one-fourth cent in 1953 and 1954.

The strikes virtually paralyzed operation of freight companies in 15 states. The effects were felt immediately throughout much of the eastern half of the country.

The strikers hit the south from the Carolinas to Texas and in Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Ohio. The long-haul truckers were ordered out Thursday midnight by the AFL Teamsters Union against approximately 500 companies.

The Federal Mediation Service in Washington was keeping an eye on the strike situation. But there was no indication what the government's next step might be.

Coroner Says Youth 'Clear' In Death Case

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 1 — (AP)— William E. Echard, 20, termed a "swell kid" by the coroner, was to be questioned again Friday about the hatchet death of his grandfather, George W. Brantner, 74.

Young Echard, drugged with "truth serium," underwent three hours of questioning Thursday. His replies cleared him of any implication in Brantner's death, said Coroner David Belinky.

"He has been cooperating with us fully and is willing to do anything to help us find out how his grandfather died," said Belinky.

Echard told police he found his grandfather in the basement of the Brantner home when he went to call him for supper Monday night. Brantner's beaten body was lying on a coal pile, his head hacked 100 times with a hatchet.

Both young Echard, who is home on a between-semesters vacation from DePauw University, and his father, William, 51, were given lie detector tests Wednesday. The elder Echard was released later that day.

Police have been unable to question Brantner's daughter, Mrs. William Echard. She suffered a heart attack after the body was discovered and is in serious condition.

Heroic Plea Is Made For Pilot's Widow

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 — (AP)—The widow of Robert P. Patterson, former secretary of war who perished in the Elizabeth, N. J., plane crash of Jan. 22, appealed Thursday night for public sympathy with the pilot's widow.

Speaking over radio station WNBC, Mrs. Patterson urged listeners to use their "inexhaustible flood of sympathy and strength to give moral support to the widow of Capt. Thomas John Reid," pilot of the American Airlines plane.

"Besides Mrs. Reid's other troubles," Mrs. Patterson said, "she had to bear wickedly foolish rumors blaming her husband for the accident and now she is in the hospital.

"It seems impossible any one could be so ungenerous and inhuman. The favorite toast to the people who fly is 'happy landing' and we must face the fact that the landing is always in God's hands."

Mrs. Reid is expecting her third child next summer.

Communists Turn Down Allied Ideas

Neutral Inspection Entry Port Plans Get Cold Shoulder

MUNSAN, Feb. 1—(AP)—Red negotiators proposed Friday the fate of 600,000 displaced Korean civilians be left to the "good faith" of the Allies and Communists.

The Reds 1—turned down a UN plan to have neutrals find out where the displaced Koreans want to live, 2—Cut the Allied proposal for inspections at 12 ports of entry to three, and 3—Did not reply to the Allied selection of Switzerland, Sweden and Norway as neutral observers of a Korean truce.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby said "we told them good faith was not enough" guarantee that displaced civilians would be allowed to live where they choose. He said "everything was very amicable except they didn't agree."

The UN proposed neutral teams interview displaced persons after the Reds again rejected a proposal to give the job to the international committee of the Red Cross. The Communists said they wanted no part of the Red Cross because it is not neutral.

There was no mention of voluntary prisoner repatriation, key stumbling block in the prisoner exchange negotiations.

Staff officers working on truce supervision machinery completed a preliminary study of the Allied working draft.

* * *

THE OFFICIAL UN Command communique said the officers "will now attempt to resolve the differences in viewpoints, most of them minor, which have been uncovered."

Among the differences in viewpoint is a disagreement over how many ports of entry should be inspected by neutral teams. The UN proposed 12 on either side—24 all told. The Reds suggested that three on each side would be sufficient. They listed Sinuiju, Hamhung and Chongjin in North Korea and Pusan, Inchon and Suwon behind Allied lines.

The Red proposal brought prompt and unfavorable reaction from Allied negotiators.

"We pointed out the impracticality of trying to limit our operations to three points and suggested that they reconsider their offer," said Col. Don O. Darrow, a UN staff officer.

An Allied spokesman said other disputes involve the number of troops each side may rotate, several UN held coastal islands which the Reds want and the number of neutral inspection teams behind the lines.

The UN wants 15 teams operating behind the lines on each side. The Reds have not said how many they want.

The staff officers aren't even discussing the principal obstacle to agreement on how to supervise an armistice. This is the question of whether the Reds have the right to build and repair military airfields in North Korea during an armistice.

Latest Congressional Probe: Pepped-Up, Tattooed Chickens

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP)— "Tattooed chicken" is the latest study picked for a congressional investigating committee.

They are hens or roosters marked with a special dye to proclaim them as pepped-up fowl.

And a pepped-up fowl would be one "shot" with estrogen pellets —sex hormones—to fatten it.

A House select committee investigating the use of chemicals in foods has been trying to determine whether estrogen — injected fowl are harmful to man.

There has been testimony that heads and necks of such chicken fed to mink have made their offspring as scarce as a new mink coat of late in Washington.

Dr. D. C. Hines, in charge of the estrogen clinical program of Eli Lilly and Co., Indianapolis, was a witness Thursday.

He contended there is no evidence to show it hurts humans to eat such chicken.

But since the usual place for "shooting" said chicken is at the base of the skull, well, a soup of chicken heads and necks, especially if one got an incompletely absorbed pellet, mike make one fil, but wouldn't change his sex.

Teenagers Cooling Off Hotrods By Appearing In School Court

CHICAGO, Feb. 1—(AP)—The kids are cooling off their own hot rods in nearby Maine Township high school.

They're doing it through a high school traffic court, presided over by a chief judge and eight associate judges whose average age is slightly over 16.

The court has its own prosecuting attorney, clerk and bailiff, its own traffic code and traffic tickets, and a schedule of fines ranging from a quarter to $1.50.

It was established this year as a means of solving problems of hotrodding, show-off driving and other bad practices frequently attributed to teenagers.

The court has full support of the school administration and faculty, but the youngsters themselves handle all court procedures.

The traffic violation tickets are distributed to 80 "special monitors" who keep on the lookout for infractions of the code.

The court's jurisdiction is limited to the 70 acres of school grounds and the immediate surrounding area. Pupils who are not "special monitors" may file complaints, appear as witnesses.

Violators who plead guilty may pay their fines without attending court, but those who wish to contest the charge may argue their own cases or bring student "defense attorneys" to represent them. Violations range from failure to have a school sticker to hotrodding.

CIO Asks Guaranteed Minimum Annual Wage

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 — (AP)—A guaranteed minimum annual wage in American industry was demanded Friday by Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, to offset unemployment and to "strike dismay" in the Kremlin.

Murray, also CIO president, likened guaranteed annual wages to a domestic "Point Four program" for "backward, or under-developed, areas of American economic stability."

Murray outlined his proposal before a six-man panel of the Wage Stabilization Board, which resumed a hearing on the steelworkers' wage and other demands after a three-week recess. A possible nationwide steel strike hinges on the outcome of the hearings.

Another hearing witness for the CIO, Economist Murray W. Latimer, said a guaranteed annual wage in the steel industry for employes with three or more years' service could be supported by company contributions of 6½ to 7 cents an hour.

In calling for the guaranteed wage plan, which in effect would give workers three-quarters of their normal pay in slack periods for as long as a year, Murray said it was not socialistic.

"Our guaranteed annual wage proposal is drafted with the best interests of our American free enterprise system in mind," he said. "It will strengthen American free enterprise, now and over the long run.

"And its adoption would strike dismay in the hearts of the men in the Kremlin who are banking on American economic distress as their most valuable fifth column in the campaign to weaken free institutions and hasten the spread of Communist dictatorship."

YEAR'S SCHEDULE LISTED

Blood Set-Up Reorganized; Schroeder Is Chairman

Reorganization of the local Red Cross blood program was made Thursday night at a meeting of organizational representatives in the city council chambers, city building.

Henry Schroeder was named general chairman of the Pickaway County Blood program. He succeeds Charles Weidinger.

Other organizational leaders were named as follows:

Mrs. Tom Renick, secretary; the Rev. Robert Weaver, publicity chairman; Edward Grigg, industry; Mrs. Walter Heine, Circleville PTA; William Wyatt, service organizations.

Paul Hang, veterans' organizations; Miss Alice Ada May and Miss Florence Dunton, clubs; the Rev. James Herbst, churches; Mrs. J. Austin Dowden, schools.

DiSalle Says Taft May Not Carry Ohio

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 —(AP)— Price Stabilizer Michael DiSalle has predicted U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft would have to conduct "a very strong campaign" to carry his home state of Ohio if he were nominated for the presidency.

DiSalle, who will step down as price chief to seek the Democratic senatorial nomination in ohio, said:

"I think the people today are not so much concerned about 'favorite sons' as they are conscious of the need for electing qualified candidates."

The former Toledo mayor said he thought a good many people who voted for Taft for senator "wouldn't necessarily vote for him for the presidency."

Turning to his projected race with Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio), DiSalle said he would campaign on the issue of "world responsibility versus isolationism" and referred to what he called the "responsibility to fight for a strong free world in opposition to totalitarianism."

CROP To Fold Up, Churchman Says

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 1—(AP) The Christian Rural Overseas Program for four years the biggest Protestant-Catholic relief agency—is to be abandoned because of insufficient public support.

The Rev. Franklin Clark Fry made the announcement. He is head of Lutheran World Relief, Inc., one of the organizations which participated in CROP. Contributions to the program have not been sufficients to justify overhead expenses of the organization which was founded in 1947, Fry said.

Man, 99, Refuses Contest Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1—(AP)—John A. Brown, 99, didn't take time off from his $175-a-month job as plant guard to contest his wife's divorce action.

Mrs. Isabelle Brown, 72, told the court she is willing to cook for her husband and share grocery bills until they are divorced, but that she needs $125 a month to get along. Brown gave her only $31.40. The court awarded her $80 a month temporary alimony. The couple has been married 28 years.

Red '2nd Team' Goes On Trial

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1 — (AP)— Trial of 15 Californians depicted by the government as the American Communist Party's second team opened Friday. They face the same conspiracy charges which tripped up the party's national heads in the famed 1949 New York trial.

The tedious job of jury selection was slated to get underway with a preliminary panel of 100 veniremen. The task may take several days or several weeks. It took three months in New York.

Swindler Didn't Forget His Trade

TOKYO, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Saburo Noguchi, 31, serving an 18-month prison term for swindling, asked his jailers for a month's leave to "attend to personal affairs."

His record was good. He got the leave. He returned Jan. 16 on schedule and was locked up. Police filed a new charge against Noguchi. While on leave, he engineered a $5,500 swindle to provide for his family until he gets out of jail.

January Grand Jury Expected To Hear 5 Cases

Only five cases are expected to be presented during a meeting of the January Pickaway County grand jury Monday.

The jury will meet at 9:30 a. m. Monday to consider one case of manslaughter, one case of grand larceny and three cases involving bad checks.

Prosecutor Guy Cline said he plans to seek an indictment of manslaughter against Roger Burris, 19, of Ashville.

Burris was accused of manslaughter following the death on Dec. 24, 1951, of Bobby Harold Swank, also 19, of Millport. Swank was killed by the blast of a 12-guage shotgun.

* * *

CLINE ALSO will seek indictments against Harold "Piggy" Imler, 32, of Stoutsville Route 2, and Jerry Herbert Wright, 18, of Columbus.

Imler is accused of forgery, while Wright is accused of having broken into the Crites Northend filling station last month and stealing a variety of merchandise. Cline will seek an indictment of grand larceny against Wright.

In addition, two secret indictments for bad checks will be sought during the session. Cline said the men accused of forging and uttering the checks are not at present immediately available for arrest.

Persons who will serve on the grand jury panel are: Charles Hissey, Williamsport Route 2; Elizabeth Gibson Jones, Circleville Route 4; Bernard C. Ball, Ashville Route 2; Mrs. Grace E. Schelb, 152 Logan street; Dewey Speakman, 360 East Mound street; Paul Kuhlwein, Ashville Route 1; Mrs. Frances R. Young, 124 West Franklin street; Walter Jones, 329 East Ohio street; Milton Tarbill, Mt. Sterling Route 3 ; Lawrence Streber, Circleville Route 4; Howard Rhoads Jr., Circleville Route 1; Mirian Adkins, Mt. Sterling Route 3; E. C. Rector of Williamsport; Mrs. Josephine Bowers of Ashville; and Mrs. A. L. Wilder of Circleville.

More Than 40 Seniors Taking State Tests

More than 40 of Pickaway County's most outstanding high school seniors were participating in a grueling examination in Circleville Friday.

The youngsters were competing in the 22nd annual Ohio general scholarship test for high school seniors.

The special testing program began at 9 a. m. Friday and continued until noon in Circleville high school study hall.

Only seniors who will be graduated in the upper 40 percent bracket of their classes were eligible to participate in the examination.

Principal J. Wray Henry of Circleville high school said 18 Circleville seniors took the exam, while about 25 from the 11 county high schools also partcipated.

* * *

MEMBERS OF THE administering committee were Henry, County Superintendent George McDowell, Ashville Superintendent John Hardin, Darby Superintendent Brice Connell and Saltcreek Superintendent Harold Strous.

Seniors ranking in the high 25 percent of the county will receive special certificates, while youngsters ranking in the upper five percent of the state will receive special recognition.

Those with high scores in the test are eligible to scholarships of from one to four years in several Ohio universities, although the colleges have the right of selection.

The local examination results probably will be available in about two weeks.

Ultimatum Given To Hospital Staff

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 1 —(AP)—St. Francis hospital, a Roman Catholic institution, has ordered seven physicians either to resign from its staff or break off from a birth control group.

The action was disclosed by one of the physicians, Dr. John R. Rogers, member of the Dutchess County League of the Planned Parenthood Association. The league's ministerial committee said the hospital's order was "inconsistent with the character of an institution which has solicited funds from and professes to serve all faiths in our community."

The 'Old Man' Long Knew This

CLEVELAND, Feb. 1 — (AP)— Men's suits were reduced in price $3 each Friday by Richman Brothers Co., operator of 67 stores throughout the nation.

Reason for the reduction, said President George Richman, is that men's clothing has been hard to sell because "the old man has always gotten what's left of the family income and right now there's just not enough left for a suit of clothes."

Four More Men File Petitions

Four more Pickaway County men seeking posts as party central committeemen have filed petitions with the county board of elections office.

Fat British Pay Checks Thinning

LONDON, Feb. 1—(AP)—The thin ranks of Britain's earners of big paychecks have been weeded again. Only 60 persons had incomes of 6,000 pounds ($16,800) or more after they paid income taxes for the year that ended in March, 1950.

The year before there had been 86 members of this dwindling elite corps. The little guy still paid most of the taxes. Most of the money collected came from people earning between five and 10 pounds ($14 to $28) a week.

Thomas Baby First In City In February

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Thomas of 116 West Mill street are the parents of a son who is Circleville's first baby of February.

The baby, the first child of the couple, was born at 2 a. m. Friday in Berger hospital with Dr. Mark Huckeriede as the attending physician. The baby weighed eight pounds and three ounces and has not been named.

The new father is an employe of Timken Roller Bearing Co., in Columbus.

As first baby of the month, his parents will receive gift certificates from the office of The Circleville Herald for a gift from the baby department of Penney's Store; a savings account with $1 from Circleville Savings and Banking Co.; a carton of 60 Watt lamps from Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., and a free three-month subscription to The Circleville Herald.

Cross Marks Put On Doors By Egyptians

CAIRO, Feb. 1—(AP)—Foreign embassies and legations have received scores of reports of strange crosses marked on foreigners' doors since Saturday's disastrous riots. Police were reported to have made many new arrests.

The U. S. embassy said it has asked Egyptian authorities to investigate several reports of crosses and other marks on American doors. British, Greek, Italian and French embassies complained of the same thing.

The cross on the door has historical significance in Egypt. The Bible says God ordered Moses and the Jews to mark sheep's blood crosses on their doors to escape avenging angels sent to slay each first born child in every Egyptian house—one of the Seven Plagues visited on the Egyptians. This was the origin of "Passover."

Egyptian police said an investigation of the latest crosses has been going on for two days. Police believe an organization called "The Liberty Assistants" are making the marks. Some of the group have been arrested.

YEAR'S SCHEDULE LISTED

Blood Set-Up Reorganized; Schroeder Is Chairman

Reorganization of the local Red Cross blood program was made Thursday night at a meeting of organizational representatives in the city council chambers, city building.

Henry Schroeder was named general chairman of the Pickaway County Blood program. He succeeds Charles Weidinger.

Other organizational leaders were named as follows:

Mrs. Tom Renick, secretary; the Rev. Robert Weaver, publicity chairman; Edward Grigg, industry; Mrs. Walter Heine, Circleville PTA; William Wyatt, service organizations.

Paul Hang, veterans' organizations; Miss Alice Ada May and Miss Florence Dunton, clubs; the Rev. James Herbst, churches; Mrs. J. Austin Dowden, schools.

* * *

MAYOR ED AMEY, city officials; and Mrs. Guy Campbell and Mrs. Ray Reid, telephone committee.

Dr. Ray Carroll will serve on the Pickaway County Blood program committee as representative from the Pickaway County Medical association.

Miss Margaret Good, president of the Pickaway County Nurses association, will represent this organization on the county committee.

Both the medical and nurses associations have pledged to staff each local visit of the bloodmobile unit.

During the meeting, a 125 pint quota for Pickaway County was set. This will necessitate 150 scheduled donors for each month's visit of the bloodmobile.

* * *

FOLLOWING schedule for the bloodmobile unit for the year was announced:

Tuesday, Feb. 26, 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the First Methodist church, Circleville.

Other future visits, scheduled for the same hours, were:

Thursday, April 3; Thursday, May 8; Thursday, June 12; Tuesday, Sept. 8; Thursday, Oct. 2; Friday, Nov. 14; and Thursday, Dec. 4.

Cleveland Man Fined By Mayor

A Cleveland man was assessed $18.70 in mayor's court Thursday night for reckless operation of an automobile.

He is Frank W. Clingan, 23, who was arrested at 11:50 p. m. Thursday on U.S. 23, South Court street, by Officer Robert Temple, on accusation that he operated an auto in a reckless manner.

Clingan was fined $10 and $8.70 in costs by Mayor Ed Amey. The driver was then committed to Pickaway County jail in lieu of fine payment.

DiSalle Says Taft May Not Carry Ohio

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 —(AP)— Price Stabilizer Michael DiSalle has predicted U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft would have to conduct "a very strong campaign" to carry his home state of Ohio if he were nominated for the presidency.

DiSalle, who will step down as price chief to seek the Democratic senatorial nomination in ohio, said:

"I think the people today are not so much concerned about 'favorite sons' as they are conscious of the need for electing qualified candidates."

The former Toledo mayor said he thought a good many people who voted for Taft for senator "wouldn't necessarily vote for him for the presidency."

Turning to his projected race with Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio), DiSalle said he would campaign on the issue of "world responsibility versus isolationism" and referred to what he called the "responsibility to fight for a strong free world in opposition to totalitarianism."

CROP To Fold Up, Churchman Says

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 1—(AP) The Christian Rural Overseas Program for four years the biggest Protestant-Catholic relief agency—is to be abandoned because of insufficient public support.

The Rev. Franklin Clark Fry made the announcement. He is head of Lutheran World Relief, Inc., one of the organizations which participated in CROP. Contributions to the program have not been sufficients to justify overhead expenses of the organization which was founded in 1947, Fry said.

Man, 99, Refuses Contest Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1—(AP)—John A. Brown, 99, didn't take time off from his $175-a-month job as plant guard to contest his wife's divorce action.

Mrs. Isabelle Brown, 72, told the court she is willing to cook for her husband and share grocery bills until they are divorced, but that she needs $125 a month to get along. Brown gave her only $31.40. The court awarded her $80 a month temporary alimony. The couple has been married 28 years.

Red '2nd Team' Goes On Trial

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Trial of 15 Californians depicted by the government as the American Communist Party's second team opened Friday. They face the same conspiracy charges which tripped up the party's national heads in the famed 1949 New York trial.

The tedious job of jury selection was slated to get underway with a preliminary panel of 100 veniremen. The task may take several days or several weeks. It took three months in New York.

Swindler Didn't Forget His Trade

TOKYO, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Saburo Noguchi, 31, serving an 18-month prison term for swindling, asked his jailers for a month's leave to "attend to personal affairs."

His record was good. He got the leave. He returned Jan. 16 on schedule and was locked up. Police filed a new charge against Noguchi. While on leave, he engineered a $5,500 swindle to provide for his family until he gets out of jail.

January Grand Jury Expected To Hear 5 Cases

Only five cases are expected to be presented during a meeting of the January Pickaway County grand jury Monday.

The jury will meet at 9:30 a. m. Monday to consider one case of manslaughter, one case of grand larceny and three cases involving bad checks.

Prosecutor Guy Cline said he plans to seek an indictment of manslaughter against Roger Burris, 19, of Ashville.

Burris was accused of manslaughter following the death on Dec. 24, 1951, of Bobby Harold Swank, also 19, of Millport. Swank was killed by the blast of a 12-guage shotgun.

* * *

CLINE ALSO will seek indictments against Harold "Piggy" Imler, 32, of Stoutsville Route 2, and Jerry Herbert Wright, 18, of Columbus.

Imler is accused of forgery, while Wright is accused of having broken into the Crites Northend filling station last month and stealing a variety of merchandise. Cline will seek an indictment of grand larceny against Wright.

In addition, two secret indictments for bad checks will be sought during the session. Cline said the men accused of forging and uttering the checks are not at present immediately available for arrest.

Persons who will serve on the grand jury panel are: Charles Hissey, Williamsport Route 2; Elizabeth Gibson Jones, Circleville Route 4; Bernard C. Ball, Ashville Route 2; Mrs. Grace E. Schelb, 152 Logan street; Dewey Speakman, 360 East Mound street; Paul Kuhlwein, Ashville Route 1; Mrs. Frances R. Young, 124 West Franklin street; Walter Jones, 329 East Ohio street; Milton Tarbill, Mt. Sterling Route 3 ; Lawrence Streber, Circleville Route 4; Howard Rhoads Jr., Circleville Route 1; Mirian Adkins, Mt. Sterling Route 3; E. C. Rector of Williamsport; Mrs. Josephine Bowers of Ashville; and Mrs. A. L. Wilder of Circleville.

More Than 40 Seniors Taking State Tests

More than 40 of Pickaway County's most outstanding high school seniors were participating in a grueling examination in Circleville Friday.

The youngsters were competing in the 22nd annual Ohio general scholarship test for high school seniors.

The special testing program began at 9 a. m. Friday and continued until noon in Circleville high school study hall.

Only seniors who will be graduated in the upper 40 percent bracket of their classes were eligible to participate in the examination.

Principal J. Wray Henry of Circleville high school said 18 Circleville seniors took the exam, while about 25 from the 11 county high schools also partcipated.

* * *

MEMBERS OF THE administering committee were Henry, County Superintendent George McDowell, Ashville Superintendent John Hardin, Darby Superintendent Brice Connell and Saltcreek Superintendent Harold Strous.

Seniors ranking in the high 25 percent of the county will receive special certificates, while youngsters ranking in the upper five percent of the state will receive special recognition.

Those with high scores in the test are eligible to scholarships of from one to four years in several Ohio universities, although the colleges have the right of selection.

The local examination results probably will be available in about two weeks.

Ultimatum Given To Hospital Staff

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 1 —(AP)—St. Francis hospital, a Roman Catholic institution, has ordered seven physicians either to resign from its staff or break off from a birth control group.

The action was disclosed by one of the physicians, Dr. John R. Rogers, member of the Dutchess County League of the Planned Parenthood Association. The league's ministerial committee said the hospital's order was "inconsistent with the character of an institution which has solicited funds from and professes to serve all faiths in our community."

OHIO CHAMBER FIGURES

Truman Budget Would Cost Co. Residents $13 Million

COLUMBUS, Feb. 1 — Operation of the Federal government during the fiscal year 1952-1953, will cost the residents of Pickaway County an estimated $13,898,000, if the Truman Budget of $85,444,000,000 submitted to Congress Jan. 21 is enacted into law, according to the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

Estimated cost for the State-at-large for the Truman spending program, would be $5,109,551,000, or a statewide average of $643 for every man, woman, and child in Ohio, or $2,572 for a family of four, Ohio Chamber President C. I. Weaver said.

The State's estimated share of $5,109,551,000, Weaver said, repressnts one and one-fifth times the total amount of general property taxes levied by all Ohio political subdivisions during the 20-year period between 1930-1950 amounting to $4,257,644,410, or approximately the total amount of general property taxes levied by all Ohio political subdivisions since 1928, amounting to $5,146,919,433.

• • •

BY OTHER COMPARISONS, Ohio's estimated share, according to Weaver, also represents—

Thirteen and one-half times the total expenditures for Ohio public schools during the school year, 1950-1951, amounting to $377,137,792. This includes capital outlay, interest, and debt retirement.

Six and one-fifth times the all-time high amount of $822,969,873, appropriated by the Ohio General Assembly to operate the State government for the 1951-1953 fiscal biennium.

Thirty and one-fifth times the entire yield of the Ohio Sales Tax during the calendar year 1951, amounting to $169,324,591.

Estimate of Ohio's share of $5,109,551,000 was determined by the Ohio Chamber's Research Department on the basis that the State's residents and taxpayers currently bear 5.98 per cent of the total Federal tax burden.

The Board of Directors of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce meeting in Columbus this week, called on Congress and the Administration to hold the budget to anticipated revenues now estimated at $70,900,000,000.

• • •

SUCH ACTION, Weaver explained would eliminate an anticipated deficit of $14,544,000,000, and avoid deficit financing.

If the budget were balanced at $70,900,000,000, he said, Ohio's share would be $4,245,800,000 for the State, as compared with $5,109,551,000 under the proposed $85,444,000,000 budget.

This would effect a savings for the State-at-large of $863,751,000 or $109 on the average for every individual in the State. The average burden for each individual would be $534 as compared with $643 under the Truman proposal.

The remedy, the Ohio Chamber official explained, is either to reduce wasteful spending or increase taxes. Mr. Weaver pointed out that with three new tax increases in a year, America is already being taxed to the point of diminishing returns.

The only recourse, he stated, is a substantial cut in Federal spending if the American economy is not to be endangered.

The Ohio Chamber President urged all Ohio citizens to write or wire their Congressional Representatives and United States Senators Robert A. Taft and John W. Bricker, demanding that the Ohio delegation in the Congress use its influence to slash extravagant and wasteful expenditures at Washington.

• • •

IN COMPARING Pickaway County's burden of $13,898,000 in proposed Federal spending, the Ohio Chamber's statistics showed that the cost per capita of the County which had a population of 29,352 in 1950, would be approximately $473.

The statistics also disclosed that Pickaway County's burden is approximately 17¼ times the total amount of Real Estate, Public Utility and Tangible Personal Property taxes paid in the county in 1949.

The total amount of these taxes was $804,199.

Be Patient About Receiving Social Security Checks

Workers and their families in the Pickaway County area who are entitled to monthly Social Security checks should receive them a few days after the third of each month.

This announcement was made Friday by C. C. Derby, manager of the Columbus field office of the Social Security Administration.

Some months, due to very favorable conditions affecting the processing of the thousands of claims handled by the Social Security area office in Chicago, and the thousands of checks that are issued by the Treasury department checks may arrive as early as the third of the month.

More frequently, however, beneficiaries do not receive them until some time during the six or seven day period following the third of the month, Darby said.

• • •

THE MANAGER urged beneficiaries to be patient.

On or about the fourth of each month, the Columbus office receives telephone calls about the checks, when due to circumstances beyond the control of the Columbus office, Chicago area office and the Treasury department, beneficiaries have not received their checks.

Darby said that these 'phone calls continue day after day, sometimes up to the tenth of the month, until the checks are in the hands of the recipients

"If you receive a check in the preceding month," Darby continued, "and no event has occurred —such as employment, death, marriage, divorce, adoption, etc. — to cause suspension or termination of your benefits, and your check is not received by the fifteenth, appropriate action will be taken to determine the reason for delay."

Observers Given CD Instructions

Instructions on how to report aircraft sighted over the Pickaway County area were given to members of Pickaway Ground Observers Corps, auxiliary firemen and policemen Thursday night at a meeting of the groups in common pleas court room.

About 75 persons attended the meeting, Ben Gordon, Pickaway County Civilian Defense director, said.

A Civilian Defense film "Modern Minutemen" was shown. Representatives from the Columbus Filter Center were present at the meeting.

RIGID ORDINANCE HERE

City Officials Seeking Even Higher Grade Milk Product

Circleville, with a rigid milk ordinance on the books, has lined itself solidly behind local dairy producers.

Safety Director Clyde O. Leist Friday gave an outline of the city's part in the regulation of quality in local dairy products, as well as some of the details of local distribution.

Leist pointed out that local milk consumption has increased since the milk ordinance was passed, presumably because of the higher quality.

At the same time, local officials are seeking to establish a new rating for even higher-grade milk products.

A resume of Circleville's stand on the local milk situation as reported by Leist is as follows:

* * *

"AN ORDINANCE regulating milk and milk products was passed by city council in March, 1950, effective September, 1950.

"We have operated under this code for about 15 months. At present we are being supplied by 50 farmers or producers under grade 'A' regulations.

"All supplies of milk are inspected at least once every 6 months. Also, the three dairies or processors of milk and milk products are inspected and samples of milk and cream are tested 4 times every six months in an approved laboratory for grading purposes. Our present rating is 82.

"That rating is based on compliances and testing of milk and milk products. At the present time we are establishing and checking for a new or higher grade.

"We want to supply the citizen of Circleville with as good a quality of milk and milk products as possible. The three dairies bottling and supplying you with milk have made improvements according to the code regulations. They are bottling about 6,700 quarts of milk per day.

* * *

"MILK CONSUMPTION has increased considerably in the Circleville area, and we believe the increase is due to a better quality of milk. At certain seasons of the year our producers or farmers are not able to supply the amount of milk needed, so we must buy some grade 'A' milk from other sources in order to take care of the demand.

"Milk prices have increased recently and forced our own dairies to raise their prices. We have competitive milk markets all around the Circleville area and we must meet that competition to assure ourselves of a sufficient supply of milk.

"There are other reasons that enter into milk distributing business, such as equipment and supplies. For instance, bottles have more than doubled in cost.

There are so many bottles not returned promptly and a great many are used for other purposes or destroyed.

"We ask your co-operation in our efforts and requests and will try to give you better foods for better living."

Union Veteran Is 110–And Still Healthy

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 1—(AP)—"It won't be me who will be dead," says James A. Hard, 110.

That was Hard's reaction to calculations of the Veterans Administration that there would be only one Union Army Civil War veteran on its pension rolls in the year ending June 30, 1953.

VA records in Washington show four Civil War veterans still alive, including Hard. They receive pensions of $1,440 a year. The budget for next year includes a pension for only one.

Hard, oldest of the four, snorted:

"It won't be me who will be dead. I expect to live for many more years. I've cut down to five cigars a day. I feel fine. I eat fine. And I sleep fine."

He will be 111 July 15.

More than 400 million pairs of shoes are turned out annually in the United States.

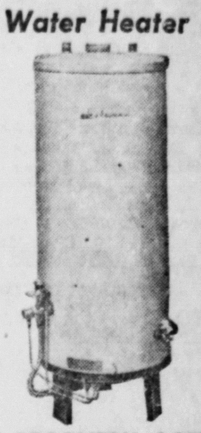

Justice Fined For Speeding

William Justice, 39, of Portsmouth, was fined $15 and $4.70 in costs Thursday night in the court of Mayor Ed Amey for speeding.

Justice was arrested at 9:45 p. m. Thursday on U.S. 23, in Circleville Township by State Highway Patrolman R. R. Greene, who accused him of operating an automobile at the speed of 65 m.p.h.

OHIO CHAMBER FIGURES

Truman Budget Would Cost Co. Residents $13 Million

COLUMBUS, Feb. 1 — Operation of the Federal government during the fiscal year 1952-1953, will cost the residents of Pickaway County an estimated $13,898,000, if the Truman Budget of $85,444,000,000 submitted to Congress Jan. 21 is enacted into law, according to the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

Estimated cost for the State-at-large for the Truman spending program, would be $5,109,551,000, or a statewide average of $643 for every man, woman, and child in Ohio, or $2,572 for a family of four, Ohio Chamber President C. I. Weaver said.

The State's estimated share of $5,109,551,000, Weaver said, repressnts one and one-fifth times the total amount of general property taxes levied by all Ohio political subdivisions during the 20-year period between 1930-1950 amounting to $4,257,644,410, or approximately the total amount of general property taxes levied by all Ohio political subdivisions since 1928, amounting to $5,146,919,433.

* * *

BY OTHER COMPARISONS, Ohio's estimated share, according to Weaver, also represents—

Thirteen and one-half times the total expenditures for Ohio public schools during the school year, 1950-1951, amounting to $377,137,792. This includes capital outlay, interest, and debt retirement.

Six and one-fifth times the all-time high amount of $822,969,873, appropriated by the Ohio General Assembly to operate the State government for the 1951-1953 fiscal biennium.

Thirty and one-fifth times the entire yield of the Ohio Sales Tax during the calendar year 1951, amounting to $169,324,591.

RESEARCH FOR DEFENSE

"TO KEEP the initiative with respect to the military forces" calls for a program of "basic" scientific research, particularly the sort of research that expects fruition within the space of two or three years. That seems the very core of the first report of the National Science Foundation set up by Congress in 1950 to aid in getting the country into "operational readiness" in the event of unexpected war.

The Foundation, which has a $3,500,000,000 grant from Congress, is prepared with this money to implement its plan by the creation of 450 fellowships for the academic year 1952-1953. These, if the plan is put into effect, will be distributed over a wide geographical area, with assignment of some fellowships to smaller colleges.

That in itself is a substantial beginning, with these scientists devoted to discovering — and inventing — improvements on present military equipment, including munitions, for land, sea and air, especially of a sort whose production will not require too long a period of time.

But, the report says in effect, this is only a beginning, and it is to be regarded as just that. The report somberly points out that "both the degree and the duration of the present emergency are uncertain." The inference—if the nation is to keep abreast of or ahead of production by a potential enemy—is that the sort of "basic" research contemplated for the academic year 1952-1953 may be necessary year after year until the danger subsides.

REMISSION OF A SIN

IT IS SAID a new chemical, drillium, has the potentialities of converting non-productive soil into productive soil. It is a synthetic soil conditioner which some experts believe will change man-made deserts into green acres.

The new chemical is enthusiastically called a hundred to a thousand times more efficient in improving soil structure than the fertilizers currently used. The soil restored by drillium, it is believed, will remain that way for a long time.

It is to be hoped the science enthusiasts are right. If so, it will cancel the old law that a man's sins will find him out. The earth's soil has been misused and exploited so long that "our plundered planet" is menacing the human race with starvation, according to some pundits.

Most of those who misused it are dead, but their sins were to be visited upon the third and fourth generations and far beyond. Now man, with his ingenuity, thinks he has found escape from his culpability.

It will be grand if that is so, because this third and fourth generation suffering for the sins of progenitors never looked very just. But the miraculous qualities of drillium will take some proving. There are possible deleterious effects from its use. Until it is proved that there are not, the course of wisdom will be to handle the soil carefully.

The United States has gained more than three million in population since the 1950 census. Eventually it may be impossible to see the country because of the people.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The Japanese Peace Treaty is, on the whole, a good treaty; yet, ratification should be slow. The treaty provides:

"All occupation forces of the Allied Powers shall be withdrawn from Japan as soon as possible after the coming into force of the present treaty, and in any case not later than 90 days thereafter. Nothing in this provision shall, however, prevent the stationing or retention of foreign armed forces in Japanese trerritory under or in consequence of any bilateral or multilateral agreements which have been or may be made between one or more of the Allied Powers, on the one hand, and Japan on the other."

Even though a "Security Treaty between the United States of America and Japan" has been negotiated, the fact remains that Soviet Russia is not a party to the San Francisco treaty and therefore is still at war with Japan. Should we step out of Japan, Russia could step in. Whatever measures we take to reduce our military establishment in no manner affects Russia's right to expand hers. Russia could even dump upon Japan the host of Japanese prisoners-of-war who have been retained by Russia for several years and who have been indoctrinated and prepared for the Communist revolution in Japan. Although the retention of these prisoners-of-war is a violation of the Potsdam agreement, the Russians have refused to release them or adequately report about them.

It is supposed to be a deep secret, but it is strongly reported that the Pentagon and the State Department are in disagreement on this subject, the military taking the position that it is dangerous to imperil our troops in Korea, while the State Department feels that it is bound to press for ratification.

If the question is asked, what will be done if Russia takes advantage of our departure from Japan and sets herself up in that country as a conqueror, the answer is that that would be an act of war. Does that mean that we should then have to go to war with Soviet Russia to liberate Japan? It would be simpler to delay ratification of the Japanese Peace Treaty, thus postponing our obligation to leave that country within 90 days after that event. We might postpone such ratification, at any rate, until the Korean War is over.

No Japanese official could afford to say that he would like ratification postponed. It would be admitting that without the physical presence in Japan of American troops, that country still stands in peril of imminent conquest by Soviet Russia. Japan has lived in that peril since the 1880's.

It is not altogether understandable why the State Department is in such a great hurry to obtain ratification from the United States Senate. Nothing immediate is to be gained; much danger may arise from such ratification. Delay could give Japan more time for reconstruction. Actually, a Japanese government is now in control of the country, and the Japanese political system is being restored. Why is it necessary to take chances while American troops are in Korea? Are those troops to be squeezed between the Russian-controlled forces in Manchuria and a revolutionary Japan? Surely, none of that can be right.

Possibly the only hope to get at the whole truth of this will be in a hearing before the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate. Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, while he has had long associations with the New Deal, in both the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, is most favorably regarded even by Republicans. It is not likely that he would say before a Senate committee, under oath, what he did not believe to be true. It is likely that if properly questioned, particularly concerning the relations between the Korean campaign and the ratification of the Japanese Peace Treaty, he would not avoid the precise truth.

Don't Self-Prescribe Thyroid

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THYROID extract should be used only under the guidance of a physician. It can be dangerous if taken otherwise, for this drug can lead to a form of addiction.

Many people take thyroid on their own, without a physician's prescription, thinking it will pep them up, or give them more "oomph." Others use it for the purpose of reducing. This is an indiscriminate use of the drug and can prove harmful.

Thyroid drugs should not be taken if there is no real indication of decreased metabolism or underactivity of the thyroid gland.

Tests for Need

The doctor has several tests he can use to help him decide whether a patient needs thyroid extract. One of these is a metabolism test, which determines the amount of oxygen consumed by the body when at rest. This test usually shows whether there is any decrease in thyroid activity. A test made to learn the amount of cholesterol in the blood is also helpful in deciding whether thyroid extract is needed.

The new radioactive materials have given us another practical test for thyroid deficiency. Radioactive iodine is taken into the body and delicate instruments are employed to trace its path and its use by the thyroid gland. It has been found that this test adequately determines a thyroid deficiency, and can be used to make a diagnosis of this disorder.

Dangers Minimized

If a physician determines from tests such as these that a patient's thyroid is underactive, he may then decide to have the patient take thyroid extract. When used in this way, the dangers from addiction can be kept at a minimum.

Persons taking thyroid extract should also have an examination by their physician at least twice a year to determine whether or not this form of treatment should be continued.

Retirement Is A New American Dream

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—When is the right time to retire?

That problem is becoming of great concern to social workers who see America becoming a land of long-living graybeards. And more and more they question the wisdom of automatically turning out to uneasy pasture at 65 men who are still vigorous and healthy.

When is the right time to retire?

"Now!" squalls the newborn babe, looking dimly about him in red-faced anger at the perilous, puzzling world of strange sights and sounds he has unwillingly entered.

"I surely will have enough money at 30 to quit," hopes the young college graduate, and begins making notes for his memoirs.

"About 50 will be right for me—and I'll spend the rest of my life traveling," muses the fellow of 35.

"I guess I'll hang on until I'm 65," he says at 50, educated to the falling value of money and a growing disinclination for long journeys.

"If they'll just let me stay on working until I'm 70 I won't mind" he says at 64, now in love with the job he has complained against for 40 long years.

But at 69 he speaks out in panic:

"Retire? Never. I'm a better man now than I ever was. What is experience for—just to throw away as junk?"

And if he is forced into retirement, he goes grudgingly and sore of heart. He has carved a pattern in the wilderness world that frightened him as a baby so long ago, and he hates to yield that pattern for a formless new world of retirement, where he will again feel himself a stranger — a pioneer in idleness.

By now he knows idleness and vague yearnings for a life of complete ease are for a young and unknowing. He has learned himself that rust is the red warning of death and decay.

Success used to be the old American dream, when success was measured in dollars and cents. But for millions of people today there is a new American dream —retirement.

It is a beautiful dream—as a goal. But it is like most other dreams, goals, and fair women. The closer you get, the more the wrinkles show. A star is pale and cold and lovely far away in the evening sky. But if you ever came near it, it would roast you into a clinker.

So does the dream of retirement turn a man ashy when he achieves it and finds it a nightmare. He no longer wants to taste lotus. Heaven is a nice thing about, too, except when you get pneumonia.

The theory of retirement is backward. If it is true, as Bernard Shaw quipped, that youth was too wonderful to waste on young people, so is retirement too terrible a plague to visit on old people.

The PARSON

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

NOW THE Parson was addressing his adult congregation. "We are a community," he was saying. "We are partners, all of us, in a big business, the business of being a Christian community worthy of the name. A community that must learn to pull together, to cooperate for a common good. We are divided, here in this community, by different churches, different political parties, different races"—he paused—"and even different ideas. But we are bound together by a common pride and a common responsibility. We work for the common welfare.

"We cannot have a great nation without great communities. We all know that the higher the average morality and intelligence, the safer is the state. We know, too, that the raising of this average is entrusted to the hands of a few, and that when a society speaks derogatorily of its chosen teachers then that society is unsound."

Behind Constance the Melick pew creaked suddenly as if in violent protest and she caught her breath. Joe Melick lay in the hospital, a badly injured young man. In her heart she had hoped that his condition might prevent Alvin from appearing this morning. But Joe was not to die, and Alvin was here.

Well, it was true enough. How it had ever started, Constance did not know. A rumor had it now that Edna had not fallen downstairs but that Donald and she had been out on a wild ride together. They had been drinking. Wasn't he used to that sort of thing? Didn't drink flow in his own home? The facts seemed indisputable. Edna was confined at home under Dr. Alcock's care, to whom Donald had taken her long after midnight. Donald had driven his car to Rossetti's garage the next day to get a smashed fender fixed. And Donald's overcoat—blood stained—had been cleaned by the local tailor.

The story was false, of course. Yet it had been seized upon by Donald's enemies, and he himself would neither deny it nor explain it. Only the Atwoods and the Moores knew the truth, outside of Edna's own family. Alvin's account was that Joe, returning alone from a class reunion, had skidded and crashed. If he knew better, he would never admit it. Why should he? It furthered his ends to have Donald the party involved with Edna, rather than his own son. Furthermore, if the truth were told now, would it make any difference? Those who wanted to believe ill of Donald would, anyway. Those who didn't held him blameless, no matter what was said. No, little would be helped by the real story of that night. Edna, a mere child, had already been punished for it. Her happiness lay with Mike, to whom Donald had persuaded her to give the facts. But there was no point, Donald had said, in broadcasting them further, because Edna feared —and perhaps rightly—that then Joe's accident might somehow be blamed on her. "I touched him," she had said. "I touched his arm just before we went off the road. If I tell it was me with him, he'll get back at me. I know he will!" Her terror of Joe had been real.

Constance returned finally to Barth.

"We are confronted by a crisis in our community affairs," she heard him say. "We are living in a time—unfortunately—when we seem to enjoy most a tasting of the imperfections that exist among us whilst our appetite for life itself, the truly wonderful adventure, fails us. Someone once remarked that a state that dwarfs its men will find that with small men no great thing can readily be accomplished." He paused, his glance holding a challenge as he finished. "Under the leadership of a stranger who has come among us, we are on our way to accomplish great things, very great things, with our young people. I, myself, can vouch that through him they are learning to appreciate the magnificence of living.

"Examine your hearts, I beg of you," he said. "Be certain that they are not filled with anything so small as jealousy or personal revenge. Bear in mind, I beseech you, the words of Socrates, 'Knowledge of good will lead to commitment of good.' Let us not, therefore, accept the whispering of unkind and cruel gossip as certain knowledge. Let us escape from possible error to truth. To trust in one who has proved himself trustworthy. Let us—" he hesitated. "Let this church unite once again in noble thinking and move toward that wholeness in life which is free from all petty emotions, to the realization that we are one in destiny.

He sat down. There was a dead silence.

Now it was over and he had preceded them all down the aisle to its end, where he would stand waiting to greet his people. Constance rose and turned and met Alvin Melick's hard glance. She leaned toward him and Louise, her voice filled with sympathy.

"How is Joe getting along, Mr. Melick?"

He nodded curtly. "All right. Thanks. Come, Louise."

Constance turned again and met the clear light in the eyes of Ruth Strong beside her. "An excellent sermon," Ruth said, with a defiant forcefulness intended for Alvin's ears. "We needed it."

"He said what I know to be true," Carl added, leaning across his wife to nod at Constance.

Constance nodded back, smiling faintly. But the Peebles are all going out of the other door so as not to shake hands with Barth, she thought. And what is Alvin saying to him now?

"Anne, stay by me," she murmured, and felt Anne's hands beneath her elbow.

There was a little crowd around Barth when they reached him. It was held there by Alvin's stocky figure blocking the way and by Alvin's voice deliberately raised to a clear and audible tone above the muted organ.

"Getting a little out of your field this morning, weren't you, Dr. Atwood? Getting a little off your course."

Constance could see Barth's silvery head rear up and his eyes flash for a moment. But his voice was mild.

"I can't agree," he said. "In my position I find I must sometimes speak as the conscience of my flock."

"Well, you spoke out of turn, then. According to my understanding of your duties, you spoke out of turn. After this, stick to the Bible and to church matters. That's your province. Let school affairs alone. I'll attend to them."

The organ was still now, and you could hear a pin drop. Breathlessly Constance waited.

Barth said, still quietly, "I hope that isn't a threat, neighbor."

"Take it as a warning!" Melick snapped, and, pushing by without touching Barth's outstretched hand, he made for the door.

• • •

Barth was sitting out in his favorite corner on the side porch. It was early in the season for him to be there. Only April. The storm door at the front had not been taken down as yet, so there was no protection for him from the breezes that swirled out of the east save for the short projection of the study wall. Nevertheless he had had to come here. He was tired from the heavy pressure of work and worry of the last two months.

To all outward appearances his church was the same. Yet it was not the same. And it had not been the same since his sermon in February. His pews were still fairly well filled, but there was frigidity and ill will in the air. The Peebles made it a point always to go out of the door opposite to the one where he was standing, so that they would not have to shake hands with him. Mrs. Ostrom had given up supervising the Kindergarten Choir, and no one had been willing to take her place, so that now Mrs. Beekman, who was in frail health, had to manage both choirs. The Banks rarely appeared any more at all. The Flints and the Maxfields were most irregular.

Barth knew what was being said, in all its ugliness. Donald Kent was not fit to be retained as a teacher in the Crestwood High School. His morals were questionable after that night ride with one of his students. His home life was indecent. And what was he teaching the young people, anyway? Certainly not much out of the textbook. He was dividing families. Dividing the school. Dividing the church. Indeed, dividing Crestwood, itself. Everywhere, save for those few different ones, people were violently for or against him. That such a situation could come to pass in this enlightened community was almost incredible. Yet come to pass it had.

In short, Donald was to be ousted. And whoever upheld Donold endangered himself, too. That meant the Parson. Melick had said as much.

Constance was fearful, but he had no fear. He would simply wait and see. Plainly, however, the struggle had resolved itself into one between him and Alvin Melick.

He turned his thoughts elsewhere with determination. To the lecture on stars that he was to give at the Crestwood High School next week. Some of the students were in the Youth Group, and it was they who, this year as in other years, had suggested his name for one of the regular assemblies. He was always pleased at this recurrent interest in his avocation. It was another door to religion which he gladly opened.

His topic this time would be, "Thus Saith the Universe." And he would begin by speaking of the great cathedral at Milan. He would picture its magnificence for them in words. And then he would tell them that what visitors from all over the world came to look at and admire and revere was not mere stone and iron and wood. No. What they saw was an architect's dream. It was art and science combined. It was thought and faith. These two had blended to create the beauty and the majesty. The stone and iron and wood were the outer manifestation of the inner dream which was the reality. And that was what the words over the archway leading into the cathedral meant. "That which is seen is temporal; that which is not seen is eternal." It bespoke the faith of science.

RESEARCH FOR DEFENSE

"TO KEEP the initiative with respect to the military forces" calls for a program of "basic" scientific research, particularly the sort of research that expects fruition within the space of two or three years. That seems the very core of the first report of the National Science Foundation set up by Congress in 1950 to aid in getting the country into "operational readiness" in the event of unexpected war.

The Foundation, which has a $3,500,000,000 grant from Congress, is prepared with this money to implement its plan by the creation of 450 fellowships for the academic year 1952-1953. These, if the plan is put into effect, will be distributed over a wide geographical area, with assignment of some fellowships to smaller colleges.

That in itself is a substantial beginning, with these scientists devoted to discovering — and inventing — improvements on present military equipment, including munitions, for land, sea and air, especially of a sort whose production will not require too long a period of time.

But, the report says in effect, this is only a beginning, and it is to be regarded as just that. The report somberly points out that "both the degree and the duration of the present emergency are uncertain." The inference—if the nation is to keep abreast of or ahead of production by a potential enemy—is that the sort of "basic" research contemplated for the academic year 1952-1953 may be necessary year after year until the danger subsides.

REMISSION OF A SIN

IT IS SAID a new chemical, drillium, has the potentialities of converting non-productive soil into productive soil. It is a synthetic soil conditioner which some experts believe will change man-made deserts into green acres.

The new chemical is enthusiastically called a hundred to a thousand times more efficient in improving soil structure than the fertilizers currently used. The soil restored by drillium, it is believed, will remain that way for a long time.

It is to be hoped the science enthusiasts are right. If so, it will cancel the old law that a man's sins will find him out. The earth's soil has been misused and exploited so long that "our plundered planet" is menacing the human race with starvation, according to some pundits.

Most of those who misused it are dead, but their sins were to be visited upon the third and fourth generations and far beyond. Now man, with his ingenuity, thinks he has found escape from his culpability.

It will be grand if that is so, because this third and fourth generation suffering for the sins of progenitors never looked very just. But the miraculous qualities of drillium will take some proving. There are possible deleterious effects from its use. Until it is proved that there are not, the course of wisdom will be to handle the soil carefully.

The United States has gained more than three million in population since the 1950 census. Eventually it may be impossible to see the country because of the people.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The Japanese Peace Treaty is, on the whole, a good treaty; yet, ratification should be slow. The treaty provides:

"All occupation forces of the Allied Powers shall be withdrawn from Japan as soon as possible after the coming into force of the present treaty, and in any case not later than 90 days thereafter. Nothing in this provision shall, however, prevent the stationing or retention of foreign armed forces in Japanese trerritory under or in consequence of any bilateral or multilateral agreements which have been or may be made between one or more of the Allied Powers, on the one hand, and Japan on the other."

Even though a "Security Treaty between the United States of America and Japan" has been negotiated, the fact remains that Soviet Russia is not a party to the San Francisco treaty and therefore is still at war with Japan. Should we step out of Japan, Russia could step in. Whatever measures we take to reduce our military establishment in no manner affects Russia's right to expand hers. Russia could even dump upon Japan the host of Japanese prisoners-of-war who have been retained by Russia for several years and who have been indoctrinated and prepared for the Communist revolution in Japan. Although the retention of these prisoners-of-war is a violation of the Potsdam agreement, the Russians have refused to release them or adequately report about them.

Hot water, according to a newspaper correspondent, is almost impossible to obtain in Indo-China. That's odd since that country seems to be in it most of the time.

Another French cabinet crisis. Habits like that apparently are pretty hard to break.

Washington TV sets are being invaded by cockroaches, we read. They should feel right at home among the bug-eyed monsters of the science fiction programs.

It may cost a million bucks to send the U.S. teams to the Olympics. There's nothing amateur about those Big Games except the athletes.

The PARSON

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

NOW THE Parson was addressing his adult congregation. "We are a community," he was saying. "We are partners, all of us, in a big business, the business of being a Christian community worthy of the name. A community that must learn to pull together, to cooperate for a common good. We are divided, here in this community, by different churches, different political parties, different races"—he paused—"and even different ideas. But we are bound together by a common pride and a common responsibility. We work for the common welfare.

"We cannot have a great nation without great communities. We all know that the higher the average morality and intelligence, the safer is the state. We know, too, that the raising of this average is entrusted to the hands of a few, and that when a society speaks derogatorily of its chosen teachers then that society is unsound."

Behind Constance the Melick pew creaked suddenly as if in violent protest and she caught her breath. Joe Melick lay in the hospital, a badly injured young man. In her heart she had hoped that his condition might prevent Alvin from appearing this morning. But Joe was not to die, and Alvin was here.

Well, it was true enough. How it had ever started, Constance did not know. A rumor had it now that Edna had not fallen downstairs but that Donald and she had been out on a wild ride together. They had been drinking. Wasn't he used to that sort of thing? Didn't drink flow in his own home? The facts seemed indisputable. Edna was confined at home under Dr. Alcock's care, to whom Donald had taken her long after midnight. Donald had driven his car to Rossetti's garage the next day to get a smashed fender fixed. And Donald's overcoat—blood stained—had been cleaned by the local tailor.

The story was false, of course. Yet it had been seized upon by Donald's enemies, and he himself would neither deny it nor explain it. Only the Atwoods and the Moores knew the truth, outside of Edna's own family. Alvin's account was that Joe, returning alone from a class reunion, had skidded and crashed. If he knew better, he would never admit it. Why should he? It furthered his ends to have Donald the party involved with Edna, rather than his own son. Furthermore, if the truth were told now, would it make any difference? Those who wanted to believe ill of Donald would, anyway. Those who didn't held him blameless, no matter what was said. No, little would be helped by the real story of that night. Edna, a mere child, had already been punished for it. Her happiness lay with Mike, to whom Donald had persuaded her to give the facts. But there was no point, Donald had said, in broadcasting them further, because Edna feared—and perhaps rightly—that then Joe's accident might somehow be blamed on her. "I touched him," she had said. "I touched his arm just before we went off the road. If I tell it was me with him, he'll get back at me. I know he will!" Her terror of Joe had been real.

Constance returned finally to Barth.

"We are confronted by a crisis in our community affairs," she heard him say. "We are living in a time—unfortunately—when we seem to enjoy most a tasting of the imperfections that exist among us whilst our appetite for life itself, the truly wonderful adventure, fails us. Someone once remarked that a state that dwarfs its men will find that with small men no great thing can readily be accomplished." He paused, his glance holding a challenge as he finished. "Under the leadership of a stranger who has come among us, we are on our way to accomplish great things, very great things, with our young people. I, myself, can vouch that through him they are learning to appreciate the magnificence of living.

"Examine your hearts, I beg of you," he said. "Be certain that they are not filled with anything so small as jealousy or personal revenge. Bear in mind, I beseech you, the words of Socrates, 'Knowledge of good will lead to commitment of good.' Let us not, therefore, accept the whispering of unkind and cruel gossip as certain knowledge. Let us escape from possible error to truth. To trust in one who has proved himself trustworthy. Let us—" he hesitated. "Let this church unite once again in noble thinking and move toward that wholeness in life which is free from all petty emotions, to the realization that we are one in destiny.

He sat down. There was a dead silence.

Now it was over and he had preceded them all down the aisle to its end, where he would stand waiting to greet his people. Constance rose and turned and met Alvin Melick's hard glance. She leaned toward him and Louise, her voice filled with sympathy.

"How is Joe getting along, Mr. Melick?"

He nodded curtly. "All right. Thanks. Come, Louise."

Constance turned again and met the clear light in the eyes of Ruth Strong beside her. "An excellent sermon," Ruth said, with a defiant forcefulness intended for Alvin's ears. "We needed it."

"He said what I know to be true," Carl added, leaning across his wife to nod at Constance.

Constance nodded back, smiling faintly. But the Peebles are all going out of the other door so as not to shake hands with Barth, she thought. And what is Alvin saying to him now?

"Anne, stay by me," she murmured, and felt Anne's hands beneath her elbow.

There was a little crowd around Barth when they reached him. It was held there by Alvin's stocky figure blocking the way and by Alvin's voice deliberately raised to a clear and audible tone above the muted organ.

"Getting a little out of your field this morning, weren't you, Dr. Atwood? Getting a little off your course."

Constance could see Barth's silvery head rear up and his eyes flash for a moment. But his voice was mild.

"I can't agree," he said. "In my position I find I must sometimes speak as the conscience of my flock."

"Well, you spoke out of turn, then. According to my understanding of your duties, you spoke out of turn. After this, stick to the Bible and to church matters. That's your province. Let school affairs alone. I'll attend to them."

The organ was still now, and you could hear a pin drop. Breathlessly Constance waited.

Barth said, still quietly, "I hope that isn't a threat, neighbor."

"Take it as a warning!" Melick snapped, and, pushing by without touching Barth's outstretched hand, he made for the door.

* * *

Barth was sitting out in his favorite corner on the side porch. It was early in the season for him to be there. Only April. The storm door at the front had not been taken down as yet, so there was no protection for him from the breezes that swirled out of the east save for the short projection of the study wall. Nevertheless he had had to come here. He was tired from the heavy pressure of work and worry of the last two months.

To all outward appearances his church was the same. Yet it was not the same. And it had not been the same since his sermon in February. His pews were still fairly well filled, but there was frigidity and ill will in the air. The Peebles made it a point always to go out of the door opposite to the one where he was standing, so that they would not have to shake hands with him. Mrs. Ostrom had given up supervising the Kindergarten Choir, and no one had been willing to take her place, so that now Mrs. Beekman, who was in frail health, had to manage both choirs. The Banks rarely appeared any more at all. The Flints and the Maxfields were most irregular.

Barth knew what was being said, in all its ugliness. Donald Kent was not fit to be retained as a teacher in the Crestwood High School. His morals were questionable after that night ride with one of his students. His home life was indecent. And what was he teaching the young people, anyway? Certainly not much out of the textbook. He was dividing families. Dividing the school. Dividing the church. Indeed, dividing Crestwood, itself. Everywhere, save for those few different ones, people were violently for or against him. That such a situation could come to pass in this enlightened community was almost incredible. Yet come to pass it had.

In short, Donald was to be ousted. And whoever upheld Donold endangered himself, too. That meant the Parson. Melick had said as much.

Constance was fearful, but he had no fear. He would simply wait and see. Plainly, however, the struggle had resolved itself into one between him and Alvin Melick.

He turned his thoughts elsewhere with determination. To the lecture on stars that he was to give at the Crestwood High School next week. Some of the students were in the Youth Group, and it was they who, this year as in other years, had suggested his name for one of the regular assemblies. He was always pleased at this recurrent interest in his avocation. It was another door to religion which he gladly opened.

His topic this time would be, "Thus Saith the Universe." And he would begin by speaking of the great cathedral at Milan. He would picture its magnificence for them in words. And then he would tell them that what visitors from all over the world came to look at and admire and revere was not mere stone and iron and wood. No. What they saw was an architect's dream. It was art and science combined. It was thought and faith. These two had blended to create the beauty and the majesty. The stone and iron and wood were the outer manifestation of the inner dream which was the reality. And that was what the words over the archway leading into the cathedral meant. "That which is seen is temporal; that which is not seen is eternal." It bespoke the faith of science.

Retirement Is A New American Dream

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—When is the right time to retire?

That problem is becoming of great concern to social workers who see America becoming a land of long-living graybeards. And more and more they question the wisdom of automatically turning out to uneasy pasture at 65 men who are still vigorous and healthy.

When is the right time to retire?

"Now!" squalls the newborn babe, looking dimly about him in red-faced anger at the perilous, puzzling world of strange sights and sounds he has unwillingly entered.

"I surely will have enough money at 30 to quit," hopes the young college graduate, and begins making notes for his memoirs.

"About 50 will be right for me—and I'll spend the rest of my life traveling," muses the fellow of 35.

"I guess I'll hang on until I'm 65," he says at 50, educated to the falling value of money and a growing disinclination for long journeys.

"If they'll just let me stay on working until I'm 70 I won't mind" he says at 64, now in love with the job he has complained against for 40 long years.

But at 69 he speaks out in panic:

"Retire? Never. I'm a better man now than I ever was. What is experience for—just to throw away as junk?"

And if he is forced into retirement, he goes grudgingly and sore of heart. He has carved a pattern in the wilderness world that frightened him as a baby so long ago, and he hates to yield that pattern for a formless new world of retirement, where he will again feel himself a stranger — a pioneer in idleness.

By now he knows idleness and vague yearnings for a life of complete ease are for a young and unknowing. He has learned himself that rust is the red warning of death and decay.

Success used to be the old American dream, when success was measured in dollars and cents. But for millions of people today there is a new American dream—retirement.

It is a beautiful dream—as a goal. But it is like most other dreams, goals, and fair women. The closer you get, the more the wrinkles show. A star is pale and cold and lovely far away in the evening sky. But if you ever came near it, it would roast you into a clinker.

So does the dream of retirement turn a man ashy when he achieves it and finds it a nightmare. He no longer wants to taste lotus. Heaven is a nice thing about, too, except when you get pneumonia.

The theory of retirement is backward. If it is true, as Bernard Shaw quipped, that youth was too wonderful to waste on young people, so is retirement too terrible a plague to visit on old people.

Importance Of Pickaway County's Women To Blood Program Told At Meeting

Telephone Committee Set

The importance of women in the community to the Blood donor program of the American Red Cross was illustrated in several ways at a special re-organization meeting held in City Council chambers Thursday evening.

In a film, "There Is No Substitute," shown preceding the meeting, detailing the story of how the blood gets from those who give it to those who need it, the role of women staff workers, nurses, technicians, motor corp personnel and canteen workers is predominant.

According to Carl Braley, regional Bloodmobile director, who was guest speaker at the meeting, there are now as many men as women giving blood due to the increased campaign in industrial plants, but earlier in the program, the greater majority of donors were women.

The movie illustrated a typical visit of the Bloodmobile unit to a community, showing how donors are received, given fruit juice to drink which raises the blood sugar level, their blood pressure and temperature taken, a blood sample tested for iron content, how the donor is questioned as to general health condition by trained personnel and finally how the blood is taken in a safe, simple and painless manner under the direction of physician and registered nurses.

It then showed the blood being stored in the refrigerated bloodmobile, the whole blood processed for civilian use and storage in the Red Cross blood bank where it is furnished without charge to civilians in local hospitals.

Plasma is processed in the laboratory for shipment overseas to the Armed Forces. Mr. Braley pointed up the great need for plasma at the front lines by remarking:

"If there is no plasma available for use immediately after a man is injured in battle, there is little need for whole blood in the hospitals behind the lines, because plasma is so necessary in preventing shock and preparing the wounded man for transportation to the base hospital."

Another important development at the meeting was the formation of tentative plans for a County-wide telephone committee, directed by Mrs. G. Guy Campbell and Mrs. R. P. Reid, which will contact women in an effort to increase the number of donors at each local visit of the Bloodmobile.

Mr. Braley complimented the local chapter for the increasing number of pints received and said, "Your job is not to let down, but to keep going. Blood cannot be manufactured. You are the only source. There is no substitute."

Next visit of the Bloodmobile to Pickaway County will be Tuesday, Feb. 26, in First Methodist church. At that time women of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church will prepare the food furnished to donors and the staff workers.

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

Shyness is the thing that keeps some of us from being ourselves and having fun. It can be downright painful and causes many 'teen heartaches, because it sometimes makes you feel "left-out" when you're in a group.

But two simple remedies will help you overcome it, if you try. They're "tried and true," not mere theory, so take it from here if you're often self-conscious and tongue-tied when you want to be friendly and gay:—

1. Remember—always—that other people are not paying much attention to you and to every detail of your looks and behavior as it seems. Instead, they're probably struggling with their own shyness, straining their brains for something to say, wondering how they look or what kind of an impression they're making. It's a fact! They're not thinking just of you; they're thinking of themselves a lot, too. You're one of the group and not in the limelight as much as your shyness makes you feel that you are. So relax!

2. Check your appearance carefully beforehand. Look in a full-length mirror to be SURE your slip doesn't show, your stocking seams are straight, etc. When you KNOW that you look all right, it's easier to forget yourself—and you must forget yourself to overcome shyness.

Those are two big "helps" in battle bashfulness. If you need more:—

"Small talk" eases every situation. It doesn't matter too much what you say; it will help "break the ice." For example, "There's a larger (or smaller) crowd here tonight, isn't there?" A question helps to start a conversation and one topic leads to another. Another hint: Slow down; take it easy and you'll feel less clumsy. Decide in advance what you're going to do and do it slowly.

(For "Personality Perk-Ups," a free leaflet, to help increase your fun and popularity, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams at this paper.)

Empty a can of sliced cling peaches into a shallow baking dish, sprinkle with finely chopped preserved ginger, and bake in a moderate oven just until heated through. Serve warm with sweetened whipped cream.

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

Shyness is the thing that keeps some of us from being ourselves and having fun. It can be downright painful and causes many 'teen heartaches, because it sometimes makes you feel "left-out" when you're in a group.

But two simple remedies will help you overcome it, if you try. They're "tried and true," not mere theory, so take it from here if you're often self-conscious and tongue-tied when you want to be friendly and gay:—

1. Remember—always—that other people are not paying much attention to you and to every detail of your looks and behavior as it seems. Instead, they're probably struggling with their own shyness, straining their brains for something to say, wondering how they look or what kind of an impression they're making. It's a fact! They're not thinking just of you; they're thinking of themselves a lot, too. You're one of the group and not in the limelight as much as your shyness makes you feel that you are. So relax!

2. Check your appearance carefully beforehand. Look in a full-length mirror to be SURE your slip doesn't show, your stocking seams are straight, etc. When you KNOW that you look all right, it's easier to forget yourself—and you must forget yourself to overcome shyness.

Those are two big "helps" in battle bashfulness. If you need more:—

"Small talk" eases every situation. It doesn't matter too much what you say; it will help "break the ice." For example, "There's a larger (or smaller) crowd here tonight, isn't there?" A question helps to start a conversation and one topic leads to another. Another hint: Slow down; take it easy and you'll feel less clumsy. Decide in advance what you're going to do and do it slowly.

(For "Personality Perk-Ups," a free leaflet, to help increase your fun and popularity, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams at this paper.)

Empty a can of sliced cling peaches into a shallow baking dish, sprinkle with finely chopped preserved ginger, and bake in a moderate oven just until heated through. Serve warm with sweetened whipped cream.

Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of stories explaining how to make out your 1951 income tax return.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Here are things you can—and can't—claim as personal expenses if you itemize your deductions. This story deals only with deductible personal, not business, expenses.

And at the end is a list of tax-free income which doesn't have to be reported at all.

You do your itemizing on Page 3 of Form 1040 under six headings on the top half of the page: Contributions, interest, taxes, losses from natural causes and theft, medical and dental expenses, and miscellaneous.

You can't deduct more than 15 per cent of income for contributions. Within that limit you can deduct for contributions to non-profit organizations operated for charitable, religious, scientific or literary purposes. Examples:

Community Chest; Red Cross; Salvation Army; tuberculosis, heart and cancer societies; societies for the prevention of cruelty to children and animals; USO; American Legion and other veterans' outfits.

• • •

YOU CAN deduct for interest you paid on installment purchases; or borrowed money or personal notes; on life insurance loans; and on the mortgage on your home.

You can deduct for state income and personal property and real estate taxes except those which, like paving assessments, tend to increase the value of your property; school taxes; auto license plates and drivers' licenses (but not auto inspection fees); state unemployment insurance tayes; and state or local retail taxes (like gasoline) if under the laws of your state they are imposed directly on the consumer or if they are imposed on the retailer (or wholesaler in the case of gasoline taxes) and the amount of tax is separately stated by the retailer to the consumer.

But you cannot deduct for federal income taxes, federal Social Security taxes which you pay for yourself or a domestic employe (if you're an employer) or which are withheld from your pay if you're an employe.

You cannot deduct, as a personal expense, taxes for tickets to theaters, ball games, movies, night clubs. You cannot deduct gift, inheritance or estate taxes; federal excise or luxury taxes such as on jewelry, furs, cosmetics, pocket books; federal taxes on tobacco, liquor; federal taxes on gasoline, oil, tires; federal taxes on radios and refrigerators; taxes on personal telephone calls; or taxes on travel fares, such as trains, ships, planes, busses.

• • •

YOU CAN deduct for damage to your home or other property by fire, hurricane, flood, lightning, storm, freezing, explosion; damage to car in an accident if you were not wilfully at fault. And you can deduct for property loss through theft.

Until this year no taxpayer could deduct for medical or dental expenses except for that part which exceeded five per cent of his income. The law has been changed a bit but only for some people.

Now if a taxpayer or his wife is 65 or over—meaning he could be 45 and his wife 65 or she could be 50 and he 65—he can skip that five per cent limitation that applies to those under 65. That is, he doesn't have to take only that part of his medical expense which exceeds five per cent of his income. He can take the expense from the start up to the limit on the total amount of medical expenses which can be claimed by anyone. The limit varies by the number of exemptions a person can claim. Deductions for dependents of people 65 remain the same as for dependents of people under 65. That is, they start deducting only that part of the medical bill which exceeds 5 per cent of their income.

For details on medical expenses see Page 14 of the 16-page pamphlet—"How to Prepare Your U. S. Income Tax Return"—which the government furnishes free for everyone itemizing on Form 1040.

You can deduct for dues to professional societies and for union dues; for fees paid for help in making out your income tax return; for gambling losses but not more than you reported as gambling gains.

You can deduct for alimony to your legally separated or divorced wife but only if the alimony was ordered by court; and the wife must report the alimony as her income.

You can't deduct for gifts to any individual, or for gifts to propaganda or political organizations or to political candidates.

Here is tax-free income which doesn't have to be reported:

• • •

FEDERAL income tax refunds (although the interest received on refunds is taxable); unemployment pay and Social Security benefits; life insurance paid because of the death of the insured; inheritance, gifts or bequests of money to you, although income from them is taxable; sickness and injury benefits received under workmen's compensation laws or—through accident or health insurance which is covered by an insurance contract.

Also tax-free are mustering-out pay; all benefits under the GI Bill of Rights, such as education and subsistence; allowances for uniforms, subsistence, quarters; pensions to veterans or their families for war services; state bonuses to veterans; and pay for disability resulting from active service.

Service pay for members of the armed forces is taxable for any month they're not in a combat zone. But all service pay for enlisted men—and up to $200 for officers on active service—is tax-free for any month served in the combat zone or for any month in which a man was hospitalized for wounds, injuries or disease incurred while in the combat zone.

There's no tax on the estate of a serviceman who died of wounds or injuries received in a combat zone in 1951 or for any previous taxable year ending on or after the first day he served in the combat zone.

NO TECHNICAL ILLEGALITY FOUND—BUT

Both Dem, GOP Party Chiefs 'Indicted' By Senate Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—U. S. Senate investigators said in effect Thursday that bosses of the nation's two major political parties are tarred with the same stick.

The unofficial indictment came as the Senate Investigations Subcommittee reported that Republican National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson and William M. Boyle Jr., his one-time Democratic counterpart, engaged in activities "bound to lead to charges of impropiety."

Senator Hoey (D-NC) said the findings were approved unanimously by the four Democrats and three Republicans of the subcommittee he heads. Neither Boyle nor Gabrielson was accused of any technical illegality.

The report denounced the American Lithofold Corp., St. Louis printing firm, for paying fees to Boyle, several government officials and others in high places, and giving them costly gifts and "lavish entertainment."

It recommended "the government should be guarded in any further business with American Lithofold or any other company which engages in corrupting practices" and that:

"Any firm or individual who seeks to bring improper influence to bear on government departments or who has a background of influence seeking should be barred from further business with the government."

Emphasizing it did not accuse Boyle of anything "illegal or immoral," it added:

"Mr. Boyle's conduct was not such that it would dispel the appearance of wrongdoing."

The subcommittee reported "no evidence of improper influence" by Gabrielson in representing Carthage Hydrocol, Inc., a Texas gas refining firm, before the Reconstruction Finance Corp., but said:

"Mr. Gabrielson should not have represented Carthage Hydrocol before the RFC after he became the chairman of the Republican National Committee."

It laid down a principle that "officials of the major political parties, whether paid or unpaid, hold positions in the nature of a quasi-public trust. They must refrain from any acts which are illegal, immoral or patently improper but—as expected of a public official—they must also avoid the appearance of wrongdoing by avoiding that type of activity which might lead the public to believe or suspect that chicanery is taking place."

The report was based on testimoney taken at public hearings last fall.

Boyle and Gabrielson each swore he had done nothing improper.

Boyle resigned his party post shortly afterward.

A group of Senate and House Republicans called for Gabrielson's resignation or dismissal from the GOP chairmanship on the basis of his testimony, but he refused to quit. The Republican National Committee recently gave him a vote of confidence at a meeting in San Francisco.

The report, which had been in printed form for some time, was delayed in presentation to the Senate by Sen. Joe McCarthy (R-Wis) who said that while 99 per cent of the report is "factually accurate" it included "a number of errors."

McCarthy claimed there is no evidence of "pressure on the RFC" applied by Gabrielson.

Antioch College Gets Scholarship

YELLOW SPRINGS, Feb. 1—(AP)—Antioch College says that a one-year postdoctoral fellowship for basic chemical research had been established by Vernay Laboratories, Inc.

The fellowship is for promoting more investigation in methods of synthesizing certain organic compounds which contain silicon of flourine. Dr. Clarke Gage of Yellow Springs has been appointed to the $10,000 fellowship for 1952.

Trucker Is Killed

COSHOCTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—Samuel R. Allese, 35-year-old Zanesville trucker, died Thursday when four tons of frozen coal gave way as he was loading a truck, trapping him in a coal chute. The coroner ruled death by suffocation.

County Aide Dies

JEFFERSON, Feb. 1—(AP)—Funeral services will be held here Monday for Robert L. Sheldon, 36, Ashtabula County clerk of courts. He died Thursday in Ashtabula after a two-year illness.

Retiring Bishop Evaluates Task

CLEVELAND, Feb. 1—(AP)—Bishop Beverley D. Tucker, who will retire Monday after 13 years as leader of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio, made a farewell address here Thursday and declared:

"It means not much to have confirmed countless numbers and to have ordained many to the ministry; it means still less to have solicited and raised many dollars if there has been no corresponding elevation in the tone or deepening of the character of Christian life and witness."

There are approximately 20 times as many murders committed annually in the United States as in Great Britain.

City Aides Unpaid

SALEM, Feb. 1—(AP)—City councilmen were to meet Friday to try to find money to pay police and firemen. Because the general fund had been depleted, City Auditor Helen Betz did not give the uniformed men their checks as scheduled Thursday.

City Aides Unpaid

SALEM, Feb. 1—(AP)—City councilmen were to meet Friday to try to find money to pay police and firemen. Because the general fund had been depleted, City Auditor Helen Betz did not give the uniformed men their checks as scheduled Thursday.

EIGHT out of every ten cars registered in the United States are 7 years old—or older. Every time the watch ticks off one minute, two cars—somewhere in the U. S.—go out of service.

A few minutes for lubrication service today may prevent expensive, time-taking repair service tomorrow.

Remember . . . the few minutes you wait while your car's battery, tires, radiator, chassis, and crankcase are being checked and serviced are the most profitable minutes you can spend.

Those minutes you spend in our Fleet-Wing Station will pay you big dividends by safeguarding one of your most precious possessions—your car.

A Pharisee and a Repentant Woman

JESUS REBUKED THE ONE; FORGAVE THE OTHER

Scripture—Luke 7:36-50.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

A TALE of self-righteousness, sin, forgiveness and love is told in today's lesson, all taking place in the house of a Pharisee who exhibited his feelings of pride that he "was not as others," although he was not the one who prayed aloud in the market place in the parable.

This Pharisee must have been interested in and more or less friendly to Jesus, because he invited the Lord to dine at his house. Jesus accepted the invitation. There were others present, too.

As they sat at meat, a woman entered. She knew Jesus was there. She was what is known as "a woman of the streets," a sinner, she is called, at any rate a poor, unhappy soul. In her hand she carried an alabaster box of ointment.

She "stood at His feet behind Him weeping, and began to wash His feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed His feet, and anointed them with the ointment."

When the self-righteous Pharisee saw that, he thought to himself, "This man, if He was a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth Him; for she is a sinner."

Jesus read his mind like a book and said, "Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee." The Pharisee answered, "Master, say on."

"There was a certain creditor which had two debtors; the one owed 500 pence and the other 50.

"And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell Me, therefore, which of them will love him most?"

Simon answered that he supposed the one to whom the debtor forgave most.

Then Jesus turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, "Seest thou this woman? I entered into thy house, thou gavest Me no water for My feet: but she hath washed My feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

"Thou gavest Me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss My feet. My head with oil thou did not anoint: but this woman hath anointed My feet with ointment.

"Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little."

It was customary in those hot, dusty countries, to offer the sandled guest water to wash his feet when he entered homes; also he usually was greeted with a kiss, and as a special honor his head was anointed with oil. None of these courtesies had been offered to Jesus, and Simon must have felt embarrassed at the rebuke implied in the Lord's words.

Then Jesus turned to the woman and said, "Thy sins are forgiven."

Then these other guests asked to dine with the Master began to say within themselves, "Who is this that forgiveth sins also?"

Jesus, paying no attention to them, said to the woman, "Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace."

This incident is related only in the gospel of Luke. This woman should not be confused with Mary Magdalene or any other woman in the Bible story. She is not mentioned by name. To us she is simply a "woman and a sinner." Mary Magdalene is not called a sinful woman. She was possessed of seven demons. Weary of her miserable, sinful life, this other woman sought out the Master, and poured out her soul—her sense of utter sin and her deep repentance, to Him. We know no more of her.

As to the Pharisee whose name was Simon, we can but wonder if he took the Lord's rebuke to heart; if he was less self-righteous for the rest of his life; less critical of others, and especially if he realized in his short but vivid encounter with Jesus, that He it was who was to bring light unto the world and heal many of their sins.

He will help you, too, if you really repent and yearn for His forgiveness. The events recorded here took place somewhere in Galilee in the summer of A. D. 28.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Public Utilities of the City of Circleville, Ohio, Department of Water & Sewage, until 12:00 noon on Tuesday, 5 February 1952, at the office of the Manager of Public Utilities in the City Bldg., for:

1—New pickup truck, ½ ton capacity, 6 cylinder, gasoline engine, equipped with hot water heater, Thru-The-post mounted inside controlled spotlight, on driver's side of vehicle, roof-mounted double faced 6" red flasher, 5 tires 600 x 16 6 ply. Truck cab doors, both, lettered "WATER DEPT." (letter size and color to be same as on present vehicle).

TRADE IN—1—1948 Ford, 6 cylinder ½ ton truck, which is no longer needed. The amount bid for this vehicle may be applied against the price bid to furnish the new vehicle first mentioned above, or this vehicle may be purchased by anyone who may place a bid for same.

Each bid must contain the full name of every person or company interested in the same and be accompanied by a bond with an approved surety company in the sum of 10 per cent of the bid, or a certified check on some solvent bank, drawn and made payable to the City of Circleville, Ohio, as guaranty that if any bid is accepted a contract will be entered into and its performance secured in the proper manner. Should any bid be rejected such bond or check will be returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted such bond or check will be returned to the bidder upon the proper execution of the contract.

The successful bidder, if any, will be required to execute the contract within 5 days after the award of the same to him. In case of failure to execute the contract as stated, the bidder will be considered to have abandoned the contract and the bond or check accompanying the bid shall be forfeited to the City.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

By authority of Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio.

John F. Mader, Chairman
Board of Public Utilities

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

MAUD E. ROOF Plaintiff
vs.
ELLEN SPEAKMAN et al Defendants

Court of Common Pleas,
Pickaway County, Ohio
Case No. 20437

In pursuance of an Order of Sale from said Court to me directed in the above entitled action, I will expose to sale, at public auction, at the door of the Court House in Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, on Monday the 25th day of February 1952, at 2:00 o'clock P. M., the following described real estate, situate in the County of Pickaway and State of Ohio, and in the Township of Pickaway, Section six (6) and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at an iron pin in the middle of the Columbus-Portsmouth Pike and in the Township line; thence S. 85 deg. 30' E. 9.06 chains along the Township line to the West line of the property of the N.&W. Ry. Co., thence S. 4 dg. 20' W. 35.44 chains along the West line of said N. & W. Ry. Co. to an iron pin; thence N. 85 deg. 42' W. 9.09 chains to an iron pin; thence S. 4 deg. 18' W. 7.25 chains to an iron pin; thence S. 85 deg. 42' E. 8.18 chains to an iron pin in the West line of the said N. & W. Ry. Co. property; thence S. 4 deg. 18' W. 9.06 chains along the West line of said N. & W. Ry. Co. to the North line of lands of Wesley Rush's heirs; thence N. 86 deg. 00' W. 42.84 chains to a stone; thence N. 4 deg. 00 E. 1.03 chains to a stone; thence N. 85 deg. 18' W. 6.36 chains to a stone; thence N. 4 deg. 18' E. 24.37 chains to a stone; thence N. 85 deg. 49' W. 16.16 chains to an iron pin in the middle of the Columbus-Portsmouth Pike near the School House; thence N. 19 deg. 30' E. 27.66 chains along the center of said Columbus-Portsmouth Pike to the place of beginning, containing 286.3 acres of land, more or less.

EXCEPTING therefrom the following tract sold by Della D. Phillips to The Norfolk & Western Railway Co. on July 22, 1924 and which said tract is bounded and described as follows: Situate in the State of Ohio, the County of Pickaway and Township of Pickaway, Section 6; bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the western right of way line of the Norfolk and Western Railway Company, and on the dividing line between lands of the grantor and Mary Reigel, said point being N. 87 deg. 16' W. 97.8 feet from a point in the center line of eastbound main track of said Railway, said point being 3746.5 feet from Mile Post 672, as measured from Norfolk, Virginia; thence N. 87 deg. 16' W. along said dividing line 15 feet to a point; thence N. 2 deg. 42' E. parallel with said center line and 112.8 feet distant therefrom about 603.5 feet to a point in the dividing line between lands of the grantor and Norfolk and Western Railway Company; thence S. 87 deg. 18' E. along said dividing line between said lands 15 feet to a point; and thence S. 2 deg. 42' W. along the said western right of way line parallel with said center line and 97.8 feet distant therefrom about 603.5 feet to the place of beginning, containing .29 acres more or less, all of which is more fully shown on Plan N-9190, dated July 10th, 1924, which plat is recorded in Deed Book 104, page 92, Deed records of said County of Pickaway.

AUCTION!

Clinton County Farm

108 ACRES

Saturday, Feb. 16, 1952

Sells On Premises at 2 p.m.

Located three miles East of Sabina, Ohio, and eight miles West of Washington C. H., just North of the CCC Highway on Borum Road in Richland Township.

One of Clinton County's best black dirt farms, improved with a complete set of farm buildings, including a substantial one-and-one-half-story frame house with six rooms and bath, front porch and enclosed back porch. Large barn 40 ft. x 72 ft. (barn is equipped for cattle and hog feeding and has large cement feeding area in connection); large tool shed; garage and shop combined; poultry house; storage building with cellar in connection, etc. New drilled well which furnishes an abundance of water. Kitchen has been modernized in the house. New electric hot water heater and hot and cold water under pressure. Buildings are substantial, adequate, and in a good state of repair. Land is level and all tillable except ten acres of woods. Soil is of the black loam variety and very productive. A very high percentage of the land on this farm is black. Good fences and drainage. General farm appearances are above the average.

This good 108-acre farm is exceptionally well located in a splendid agricultural section; just North of the CCC Highway on the Clinton and Fayette County line. Sabina school district; good roads in every direction. All modern rural conveniences available. Farm has been well cared for and is ready to go to work for a new owner. This is an unusual opportunity to buy one of the good medium sized farms in this section of Ohio. Inspection permitted prior to sale.

Sale on the premises. Sells to the highest bidder.

TERMS—$5,000.00 cash at time of sale, balance to be paid on delivery of deed. Purchaser will receive good title and possession by March 1, 1952.

22 acres of growing wheat goes with the farm.

Pressure Increases For Jersey Joe To Give Charles A Chance

MIAMI, Feb. 1—(AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott's immediate future as world heavyweight champion will be discussed at a conference here Saturday, and it appeared more than likely the verdict will be a return fight with Ezzard Charles.

Walcott's manager, Felix Bocchicchio, kicked up a verbal storm when he announced Thursday he had agreed tentatively to a title bout with Harry "Kid" Matthews in Las Vegas, Nev.

This brought a prompt statement in Miami from Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, that he would not release Walcott from his contract with the IBC to meet Charles.

Added Al Weill, the IBC matchmaker:

"Walcott is going to fight Charles for the title first. If he doesn't, he'll be sued for every penny he owns. And he's going to have to sign by Feb. 5 or get suspended and forfeit the title."

The New York Boxing Commission has given Walcott until Feb. 5 to sign for a title defense and wants his opponent to be Charles.

National Boxing Association set March 15 as the deadline and chose Rocky Marciano, who recently knocked out Joe Louis, as the logical contender.

Norris is scheduled to get together here Saturday with Bocchicchio and Charles' managers, Jake Mintz and Tom Tannas.

"The only think I'm interested in," Norris said, "is Walcott's fight with Ezzard Charles."

Bocchicchio told newsmen at a press conference in Washington that Harry Hunt, a Los Angeles promoter representing Wilbur Clark, a Las Vegas hotel operator, had offered to "give us $250,000 and give me 50 per cent of everything" for a Matthews fight.

1st Round Play In Thursday Loop Begins

Farmers Exchange, Hessler's Lab and Columbus Merchant cagers recorded victories Thursday night in the first night of the second round play of the Commercial Point Thursday league.

The Exchangers from Monroe Township tallied a 60-58 win during the evening over Sigs Market cagers.

Hessler's Lab racked up a 63-49 win over Grove City.

And Columbus Merchants posted a 61-41 win over Brownie AC basketeers.

Top scorer for the evening was Pete Hix, who netted 28 points for his Exchange quintet. Box scores of the Thursday league games follow:

Illini Cagers Due To Meet Buckeye '5'

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Illinois risks its Big Ten leadership in Columbus Saturday night against Ohio State's unpredictable basketball crew.

The Buckeyes are not strangers to the upset role. After a preliminary, non - conference campaign that marked them less than average, they toppled previously unbeaten Indiana, a pre-season Big Ten favorite, 73-72.

Thursday night the Bucks fell before St. Louis University, ranked sixth nationally. The final score was 62-58 against the Ohioans. Paul Ebert, Ohio's star center, who scored 20 points, was out a good part of the game because of a high number of fouls against him.

Ohio State ranks third in the Big Ten with three victories in five games.

The feature of Midwest independent games is a doubleheader in Chicago Stadium, with Cincinnati playing DePaul, and Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 team in the AP poll, taking on Notre Dame in the second game.

3 Of 4 Ohio Girls Lose In Tourney

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Feb. 1—(AP)—Three Ohio women golfers were eliminated Thursday in the opening round of the seventh annual women's four-ball golf tournament. Only one Ohioan remained in competition.

Claire Doran of Cleveland paired with Eileen Stulb of Augusta, Ga., to eliminate Judy Baker of Lima, O., and Bonnie Randolph of Columbus, 6 and 5. Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., and Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, defeated Carol Diringer of Tiffin, O., and Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., 3 and 1.

Tiger Encounter With Washington Is Postponed

Circleville high school's basketball contest against Washington C. H., slated for Friday night, has been postponed.

The South Central Ohio League encounter was called off Thursday when Circleville's schools were closed because of illness.

However, by virtue of the postponement, Circleville may play a leading role in deciding the 1952 SCOL championship.

Tiger Coach Tom Bennett Friday hinted the game may not be rescheduled until after the district tournament in Columbus.

• • •

IF THAT proves the case, Circleville may have a chance at jumbling SCOL standings, since Washington is one of the leading contenders for the loop title.

In other words, if Washington and Greenfield should be tied for the crown at the end of the regular season, the locals may have a chance to upset the balance one way or another.

Circleville's next regularly scheduled game will be next Friday night against invading Greenfield McClain.

AUCTION!

Clinton County Farm

108 ACRES

Saturday, Feb. 16, 1952

Sells On Premises at 2 p.m.

Located three miles East of Sabina, Ohio, and eight miles West of Washington C. H., just North of the CCC Highway on Borum Road in Richland Township.

One of Clinton County's best black dirt farms, improved with a complete set of farm buildings, including a substantial one-and-one-half-story frame house with six rooms and bath, front porch and enclosed back porch. Large barn 40 ft. x 72 ft. (barn is equipped for cattle and hog feeding and has large cement feeding area in connection); large tool shed; garage and shop combined; poultry house; storage building with cellar in connection, etc. New drilled well which furnishes an abundance of water. Kitchen has been modernized in the house. New electric hot water heater and hot and cold water under pressure. Buildings are substantial, adequate, and in a good state of repair. Land is level and all tillable except ten acres of woods. Soil is of the black loam variety and very productive. A very high percentage of the land on this farm is black. Good fences and drainage. General farm appearances are above the average.

This good 108-acre farm is exceptionally well located in a splendid agricultural section; just North of the CCC Highway on the Clinton and Fayette County line. Sabina school district; good roads in every direction. All modern rural conveniences available. Farm has been well cared for and is ready to go to work for a new owner. This is an unusual opportunity to buy one of the good medium sized farms in this section of Ohio. Inspection permitted prior to sale.

Sale on the premises. Sells to the highest bidder.

TERMS—$5,000.00 cash at time of sale, balance to be paid on delivery of deed. Purchaser will receive good title and possession by March 1, 1952.

Pressure Increases For Jersey Joe To Give Charles A Chance

MIAMI, Feb. 1—(AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott's immediate future as world heavyweight champion will be discussed at a conference here Saturday, and it appeared more than likely the verdict will be a return fight with Ezzard Charles.

Walcott's manager, Felix Bocchicchio, kicked up a verbal storm when he announced Thursday he had agreed tentatively to a title bout with Harry "Kid" Matthews in Las Vegas, Nev.

This brought a prompt statement in Miami from Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, that he would not release Walcott from his contract with the IBC to meet Charles.

Added Al Weill, the IBC matchmaker:

"Walcott is going to fight Charles for the title first. If he doesn't, he'll be sued for every penny he owns. And he's going to have to sign by Feb. 5 or get suspended and forfeit the title."

The New York Boxing Commission has given Walcott until Feb. 5 to sign for a title defense and wants his opponent to be Charles.

National Boxing Association set March 15 as the deadline and chose Rocky Marciano, who recently knocked out Joe Louis, as the logical contender.

Norris is scheduled to get together here Saturday with Bocchicchio and Charles' managers, Jake Mintz and Tom Tannas.

"The only think I'm interested in," Norris said, "is Walcott's fight with Ezzard Charles."

Bocchicchio told newsmen at a press conference in Washington that Harry Hunt, a Los Angeles promoter representing Wilbur Clark, a Las Vegas hotel operator, had offered to "give us $250,000 and give me 50 per cent of everything" for a Matthews fight.

1st Round Play In Thursday Loop Begins

Farmers Exchange, Hessler's Lab and Columbus Merchant cagers recorded victories Thursday night in the first night of the second round play of the Commercial Point Thursday league.

The Exchangers from Monroe Township tallied a 60-58 win during the evening over Sigs Market cagers.

Hessler's Lab racked up a 63-49 win over Grove City.

And Columbus Merchants posted a 61-41 win over Brownie AC basketeers.

Top scorer for the evening was Pete Hix, who netted 28 points for his Exchange quintet. Box scores of the Thursday league games follow:

Illini Cagers Due To Meet Buckeye '5'

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Illinois risks its Big Ten leadership in Columbus Saturday night against Ohio State's unpredictable basketball crew.

The Buckeyes are not strangers to the upset role. After a preliminary, non - conference campaign that marked them less than average, they toppled previously unbeaten Indiana, a pre-season Big Ten favorite, 73-72.

Thursday night the Bucks fell before St. Louis University, ranked sixth nationally. The final score was 62-58 against the Ohioans. Paul Ebert, Ohio's star center, who scored 20 points, was out a good part of the game because of a high number of fouls against him.

Ohio State ranks third in the Big Ten with three victories in five games.

The feature of Midwest independent games is a doubleheader in Chicago Stadium, with Cincinnati playing DePaul, and Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 team in the AP poll, taking on Notre Dame in the second game.

3 Of 4 Ohio Girls Lose In Tourney

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Feb. 1—(AP)—Three Ohio women golfers were eliminated Thursday in the opening round of the seventh annual women's four-ball golf tournament. Only one Ohioan remained in competition.

Claire Doran of Cleveland paired with Eileen Stulb of Augusta, Ga., to eliminate Judy Baker of Lima, O., and Bonnie Randolph of Columbus, 6 and 5. Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., and Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, defeated Carol Diringer of Tiffin, O., and Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., 3 and 1.

5-Under Par Scores Pace Tucson Open

TUCSON, Feb. 1 — (AP)—Hungry newcomers and last year's big money winner were in the field that Saturday began chasing Cary Middlecoff of Memphis and Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Cal., in the second round of the $10,000 Tucson Open golf tourney.

Neither of the leaders was satisfied with his five-under-par 65.

They weren't nearly as disgusted as Jimmy Demaret. The brilliantly-garbed Texan who plays out of Ojai, Calif., needed 14 strokes to finish the 513-yard, par five, 18th hole. He drove five balls out of bounds as he tried to cut across a slight dog-leg. Those wasted strokes gave him 33-4578 for the day.

Lloyd Mangrum, who took the major share of prize money in 1951, is one of 10 tied for seventh place with scores of 68. He is as feared as when the tourney started.

2 More Sluggers Are Named For Spots In 'Hall Of Fame'

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—(AP)—For the second straight year power has overshadowed pitching prowess in selections for baseball's Hall of Fame.

The nation's baseball writers reached into each of the major leagues today for the latest additions to the shrine at Cooperstown.

They honored the late Harry Heilmann, a great righthanded hitter for Detroit in the '20s, and Paul "Big Poison" Waner, who came along a decade later to belt out base-hits for Pittsubrgh.

Two sluggers—Mel Ott of the New York Giants and Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics—were last year's nominees and no one was picked in 1950.

So the last pitcher to reach the Hall of Fame was Mordecai "3-Finger" Brown, picked in 1949.

However, if this year's voting is a barometer of things to come, one of the pitching stars of the modern er probably will be honored in the near future.

That is Dizzy Dean, iron-winged righthander of the St. Louis Cardinals in the per-World War II days, who was one of the four highest men in the balloting.

A total of 234 votes were cast with 75 per cent needed for election. Heilmann with 203 and Waner with 195 got in easily.

Next in line were Bill Terry, former first baseman and manager of the New York Giants, and the famulous Dean. Terry received 155 votes, Dean 152.

Then sentiment turned back to the hitters with Al Simmons, the oldtime Athletics' star, and Bill Dickey, the New York Yankees' brilliant catcher, following.

Findlay Judge Enters Cage Player Dispute

FINDLAY, Feb. 1—(AP)—Action by the Ohio State High School Athletic Association declaring a 17-year-old freshman ineligible for athletic competition was lifted temporarily Thursday by Common Pleas Judge Chester Pendleton.

OHSAA Commissioner H. W. Emswiler declared David Miller, ninth grade pupil, ineligible. He said he received complaints that Miller was a pupil at a junior high school in Findlay which has a different principal from Findlay high school, where the boy played as a basketball substitute.

Emswiler said this is contrary to OHSAA regulations and ordered nine games Miller played in for Findlay High forfeited.

Judge Pendleton issued a temporary restraining order against the OHSAA from declaring Miller ineligible and set Feb. 9 as date for a hearing on a plea for a permanent injunction. Howard Miller, father of the youth, requested the order.

Bradley Cager Put On Probation

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 1 — (AP)—The circuit court has decreed a year's probation for Gene Melchiorre, former Bradley University basketball star who admitted figuring in game-fixing activities.

The court announced the decision Thursday. Melchiorre had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging failure to report a bribe to shave points from Bradley's score in a game won 77-44 from Oregon State here in 1950.

At any rate, that is the best hope we have of getting at the truth of this business. The continuing value of Congressional investigations is that they always bring out some of the facts in a situation. Our foreign policy has been secretly conducted for secret objectives, but as the 1952 Presidential campaign approaches, there will be an increasing clamor for precise facts and a clear explanation of them. The reason for speed in the ratification of the Japanese Peace Treaty requires detailed explanation.

2 More Sluggers Are Named For Spots In 'Hall Of Fame'

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—(AP)—For the second straight year power has overshadowed pitching prowess in selections for baseball's Hall of Fame.

The nation's baseball writers reached into each of the major leagues today for the latest additions to the shrine at Cooperstown.

They honored the late Harry Heilmann, a great righthanded hitter for Detroit in the '20s, and Paul "Big Poison" Waner, who came along a decade later to belt out base-hits for Pittsubrgh.

Two sluggers—Mel Ott of the New York Giants and Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics—were last year's nominees and no one was picked in 1950.

So the last pitcher to reach the Hall of Fame was Mordecai "3-Finger" Brown, picked in 1949.

However, if this year's voting is a barometer of things to come, one of the pitching stars of the modern er probably will be honored in the near future.

That is Dizzy Dean, iron-winged righthander of the St. Louis Cardinals in the per-World War II days, who was one of the four highest men in the balloting.

A total of 234 votes were cast with 75 per cent needed for election. Heilmann with 203 and Waner with 195 got in easily.

Next in line were Bill Terry, former first baseman and manager of the New York Giants, and the famulous Dean. Terry received 155 votes, Dean 152.

Then sentiment turned back to the hitters with Al Simmons, the oldtime Athletics' star, and Bill Dickey, the New York Yankees' brilliant catcher, following.

Findlay Judge Enters Cage Player Dispute

FINDLAY, Feb. 1—(AP)—Action by the Ohio State High School Athletic Association declaring a 17-year-old freshman ineligible for athletic competition was lifted temporarily Thursday by Common Pleas Judge Chester Pendleton.

OHSAA Commissioner H. W. Emswiler declared David Miller, ninth grade pupil, ineligible. He said he received complaints that Miller was a pupil at a junior high school in Findlay which has a different principal from Findlay high school, where the boy played as a basketball substitute.

Emswiler said this is contrary to OHSAA regulations and ordered nine games Miller played in for Findlay High forfeited.

Judge Pendleton issued a temporary restraining order against the OHSAA from declaring Miller ineligible and set Feb. 9 as date for a hearing on a plea for a permanent injunction. Howard Miller, father of the youth, requested the order.

Bradley Cager Put On Probation

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 1 — (AP)—The circuit court has decreed a year's probation for Gene Melchiorre, former Bradley University basketball star who admitted figuring in game-fixing activities.

The court announced the decision Thursday. Melchiorre had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging failure to report a bribe to shave points from Bradley's score in a game won 77-44 from Oregon State here in 1950.

Joey Ray Said Smuggled To U.S.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—(AP)—British boxer Joey Ray was smuggled into this country, immigration agents said Thursday.

An immigration official said Ray paid $100 to a fireman on the cruise ship, Queen of Bermuda, to smuggle him into the U. S. last Dec. 21. The fireman and two other members of the ship's crew are being held in $2,500 bail each.

Sokolsky's

At any rate, that is the best hope we have of getting at the truth of this business. The continuing value of Congressional investigations is that they always bring out some of the facts in a situation. Our foreign policy has been secretly conducted for secret objectives, but as the 1952 Presidential campaign approaches, there will be an increasing clamor for precise facts and a clear explanation of them. The reason for speed in the ratification of the Japanese Peace Treaty requires detailed explanation.

Foreign Policy Change Unseen

DAYTON, Feb. 1—(AP)—The president of the Louisville Courier-Journal reports he told many foreigners the presidential campaign will not change U. S. foreign policy.

Barry Bingham, former Marshall Plan administrator for France, said many Europeans had asked him about the campaign and its effect. He also said the Economic Cooperation Administration had cost each American $15 since its origin and added, "it was money well spent."

Piqua Notes Death

PIQUA, Feb. 1—(AP)—Piqua had its first traffic fatality in more than two years Thursday. Paul Burns, 26, of Piqua was injured fatally when his motor scooter and an auto collided in the downtown district.

Autoist Is Killed

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1—(AP)—Donald C. Duwel, 22, was killed Thursday in an automobile accident. Duwel, enroute home from work, lost control of his car and it hit two trees and overturned.
